Clothes of Jail Trusty Catch Fire

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Heading into its third week, Missouri's special legislative session has a few bills ready for floor action but most of the major ones are still stuck in committee.

The emergency appropriation bill to finance state agencies for the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30 is ready for debate. But the rest of the nearly billion dollar budget is still in the Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Bernard (Doc) Simcoe, D-Callaway County, chairman, said he hoped to get the rest of the money bills cleared by Thursday so they could be brought up on the floor next week, the fourth week of the 60-day session.

The senate has three bills ready for debate. One non-controversial measure which won unanimous committee support would cut the unemployment compensation tax rates of Missouri employers by about $20 million next year because reserves are more than adequate to pay expected claims.

Another would put Missouri among the 23 states which have ratified an amendment to the United States Constitution clarifying presidential succession.

The third would change Jackson County Probate Court districts to keep the workload between the downtown and the Independence courthouses about the same as it is now.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson recommended to Congress today a far-reaching program he said is needed to protect the American consumer in the market place.

Specifically, he renewed his request of two years ago for what he described as effective laws on lending and packaging. "We can protect both the consumer and the overwhelming majority of businessmen from the minority of producers who would compete unfairly and infringe the rights of the consumer and their fellow businessmen," Johnson said.

"We need reform in the credit area and we should encourage states to enact legislation to correct abuses."

"We need such legislation urgently. We can act wisely without further delay."

Both proposals are already before Congress with sponsors describing them as "truth in packaging" and "truth in lending" measures.

Under legislation urged by Johnson moneylenders, including those who finance consumer purchases on time, would have to state the full cost of credit, simply and clearly, and state it before any contract is signed.

The proposal for packaging and labeling legislation would require that each package provide simple, direct, accurate information as to the nature and quantity of contents, including ingredients where this is important.

Johnson also recommended other steps to reinforce consumer protection.

The California deserts welcomed the new season with carpets of desert primrose and sand verbenas bursting into bloom.

SAIGON (AP) — The United States lost six more planes in widening American air operations over North and South Vietnam, a U.S. spokesman reported today. Two fliers were killed, two captured and two others are missing, he said.

In the ground war, about 3,000 U.S. Marines launched two separate operations — Oregon and Texas — against Communist units near Hue and Quang Ngai City on the north coast. Attacking under Marine jet strikes and artillery fire, the Leathernecks reported killing 46 Viet Cong in ground attacks and possibly many more in air and artillery strikes in Operation Texas at an Hoa, near Quang Ngai City.

Marines in Operation Oregon, 15 miles northwest of Hue, reported killing 34 enemy troops in heavy fighting this morning. Marine casualties in both clashes — about 120 miles apart — were described as light.

Near Saigon, the U.S. Strategic Air Command marked its 20th anniversary by sending Guam-based B52 bombers over the Communist DeZone stronghold 35 miles north of the capital to pound escape routes leading through the jungle to Cambodia.

In two other actions, South Vietnamese troops reported killing more than 225 Viet Cong. Government troops killed 100 Communists in a stiff fight at Vo Xu, a rice producing area 75 miles northeast of Saigon that was liberated recently by the U. S. 173rd Airborne Brigade and the Vietnamese 10th Division.

It hasn't been determined whether it was an accident when Robert Mathis' clothes caught fire Saturday at 6 p.m. behind the police station.

Chief of Police Arthur Bruce said that Mathis has attempted to hang himself and cut his wrist while in custody since March 8.

Bruce said that Saturday he heard screams behind the station and when he got back there Mathis had shed burning clothing and one rubber boot.

He was admitted for treatment at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for burns on the right leg and hand.

His condition is reported to be satisfactory.

Mathis is in jail on charges of assault, assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, and public intoxication.

Bruce said that he is working out his fines for the charges as a trusty.

Bruce said that last week Mathis was heard gagging in a cell.

Officers went back and found that he had wrapped his pants leg around the top part of cell bars and around his neck in an attempt to hang himself.

Bruce said that he had attempted to gouge his wrist with wire. He then was taken to the hospital for emergency treatment of his arm wounds.

Bruce said that Mathis had been helping paint the police station earlier Saturday afternoon and had washed himself and boots with gasoline before burning the trash at the back of the station.

March 29 Election Stands, Charleston Board Decides

By DAN WHITTLE
CHARLESTON -- In closed session, after reporters were ordered to leave the room, the Charleston R-1 board of education voted unanimously again to hold a special $1,400,000 high school bond election March 29.

In a prepared handout issued after the closed session, the board said that "all differences of opinion had been resolved." The closed session lasted two and a half hours.

Mrs. Clifton Banta, board member, made the motion to enter executive session after her husband, Clifton Banta, board attorney, refused to answer a question asked him by Fred Moxley, Jr., board member.

"Why wasn't he informed?" Moxley asked in reference to bonds ruled invalid by St. Louis bond attorneys that had been approved March 2, to build a $1,400,000 high school. "I have no comment to make at this time with the press and all present," Banta replied.

Mrs. Banta's motion to go into closed door session was approved five to one. Moxley voted against it.

The board has been involved in controversy over the bond issue. The board had voted earlier to hold the second election on the bond issue March 29 but Moxley had suggested that the action be reconsidered and the election be held at a later date.

Before the barred door session began, H. H. Sutherland, board president, opened the meeting by saying that the board was "off in the wrong direction."

"We should want to do the best things possible to have the best possible district. It seems to me, that we have completely lost sight of this," he said.

"I hope this morning that we can keep this meeting on a gentleman basis and discuss our problems in a gentleman manner and leave this meeting with the right decision."

"It has caused me undue concern. I'm losing sleep over it and I'm not so sure that I'm not jeopardizing my business over it."

After Sutherland's opening remarks Moxley intervened.

"I would like to make an opening statement. Publicly I would like to admit that I'm ashamed for several different reasons to be on this board for the actions that we have committed this year. The main reason, is that we tried to sell bonds with no election of this district whatsoever. This to me is real serious."

"It's criminal in my way of looking at it. We passed and collected money from people for this bond issue that was never voted on by this district. Someone misused us."

The school bonds were ruled invalid because of school reorganization that had taken place after the bond vote and before they were sold.

Ground was broken for the new school March 15.

Prison Sentence Upheld

WASHINGTON AP — The Supreme Court ruled today that publications designed entirely to appeal to "prurient interests" are not protected by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression.

With this ruling, delivered by Justice William J. Brennan, the court upheld a five-year prison term for Eros magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg under a federal obscenity law.

Brennan said Ginzburg's conviction for mailing Eros and two other publications stand under the court's 9-year-old obscenity standard, known as the Roth ruling.

Brennan wrote the high tribunal's main opinion in the Roth case in 1957. He said at that time that the test for obscenity was "whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interests."

In another action today, the Supreme Court upheld the conviction of Ed Mishkin of New York, under the state's obscenity statute. But it ruled that the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court had erred in banning the 18th-century story of a London prostitute known as "Fanny Hill."

Remap Problem Not Solved
JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Weary House redistricting commissioners held a special session Sunday but failed to solve the vexing problem of reapportioning House seats in the St. Louis area.

They went back to work today, still hopeful they could settle the issue and come up with a tentative plan by midnight Wednesday.

Maps and legal descriptions already have been worked out for Jackson County and all of outstate Missouri.

Both the Republican chairman and the Democratic vice chairman of the 20-member bipartisan commission said they were determined to finish the task before the deadline. Fourteen of the 20 members must agree before a plan can be approved.

If they deadlock, the job goes over to the six Supreme Court commissioners — three Democrats and three Republicans. They are reluctant to get into the squabble with all of its political overtones.

Near Saigon, the U.S. Strategic Air Command marked its 20th anniversary by sending Guam-based B52 bombers over the Communist D-Zone stronghold 35 miles north of the capital to pound escape routes leading through the jungle to Cambodia.

In two other actions, South Vietnamese troops reported killing more than 225 Viet Cong. Government troops killed 100 Communists in a stiff fight at Vo Xu, a rice producing area 75 miles northeast of Saigon that was liberated recently by the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade and the Vietnamese 10th Division.

Clothes of Jail Trusty Catch Fire

It hasn't been determined whether it was an accident when Robert Mathis' clothes caught fire Saturday at 6 p.m. behind the police station.

Chief of Police Arthur Bruce said that Mathis had attempted to hang himself and cut his wrist while in custody since March 8.

Bruce said that Saturday he heard screams behind the station and when he got back there Mathis had shed burning clothing and one rubber boot.

He was admitted for treatment at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for burns on the right leg and hand. His condition is reported to be satisfactory.

Mathis is in jail on charges of assault, assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, and public intoxication.

Bruce said that he is working out his fines for the charges as a trusty.

Bruce said that last week Mathis was heard gagging in a cell.

Officers went back and found that he had wrapped his pants leg around the top part of cell bars and around his neck in an attempt to hang himself.

Bruce said that he had attempted to gouge his wrist with wire. He then was taken to the hospital for emergency treatment of his arm wounds.

Bruce said that Mathis had been helping paint the police station earlier Saturday afternoon and had washed himself and boots with gasoline before burning the trash at the back of the station.

Jones Predicts Tax Increase Plea

Special to Daily Standard
WASHINGTON -- President Lyndon B. Johnson will come to Congress and ask it to increase taxes before this session of Congress if ever, Rep. Paul Jones told the House.

He explained to the House he was opposed to the repeal of excise taxes on certain items at a time spending was being increased and there was a chance the Viet Nam war would be escalated.

He noted that the repeal of the excise tax had hardly taken effect before President Johnson asked Congress to reenact it on some items, such as telephone messages and automobiles.

He pointed out that he voted against putting the taxes back on after the matter reached the House in the first round. He said he did not like the fragmentary way of patching up taxes piecemeal. He said there was a need for facing the ever-all need of the war.

Both Jones and Rep. Tom Curtis, both of Missouri, objected to the tax bill on its second trip to the House, after the Senate had amended it.

They objected to the senate practice of attaching amend-

March 29 Election Stands, Charleston Board Decides

By DAN WHITTLE

CHARLESTON -- In closed session, after reporters were ordered to leave the room, the Charleston R-1 board of education voted unanimously again to hold a special $1,400,000 high school bond election March 29.

In a prepared handout issued after the closed session, the board said that "all differences of opinion had been resolved."

The closed session lasted two and a half hours.

Mrs. Clifton Banta, board member, made the motion to enter executive session after her husband, Clifton Banta, board attorney, refused to answer a question asked him by Fred Moxley, Jr., board member.

"Why wasn't we informed?" Moxley asked in reference to bonds ruled invalid by St. Louis bond attorneys that had been approved March 2, to build a $1,400,000 high school. "I have no comment to make at this time with the press and all present," Banta replied.

Mrs. Banta's motion to go into closed door session was approved five to one. Moxley voted against it.

The board has been involved in controversy over the bond issue. The board had voted earlier to hold the second election on the bond issue March 29 but Moxley had suggested that the action be reconsidered and the election be held at a later date.

Before the barred door session began, H. H. Sutherland, board president, opened the meeting by saying that the board was "off in the wrong direction."

"We should want to do the best things possible to have the best possible district. It seems to me, that we have completely lost sight of this," he said.

"I hope this morning that we can keep this meeting on a gentleman basis and discuss our problems in a gentleman manner and leave this meeting with the right decision."

"It has caused me undue concern. I'm losing sleep over it and I'm not so sure that I'm not jeopardizing my business over it."

He is a member of the Missionary Baptist church.

"I personally would like to see it settled here today and get on with the problems of passing the bond issue, which has definitely got to be passed."

After Sutherland's opening remarks Moxley intervened.

"I would like to make an opening statement. Publicly I would like to admit that I'm ashamed for several different reasons to be on this board for the actions that we have committed this year. The main reason, is that we tried to sell bonds with no election of this district whatsoever. This to me is real serious."

"It's criminal in my way of looking at it. We passed and collected money from people for this bond issue that was never voted on by this district. Someone misused us."

The school bonds were ruled invalid because of school reorganization that had taken place after the bond vote and before they were sold.

Ground was broken for the new school March 15.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, March 21, 1952, Tharlish, Georgia: Cloyd Treemis finds use for discarded shoe tongues.

Time and again in recent days our columnist Victor Riesel has been ahead on stories only now making the wires and front pages.

For many weeks there have been reports of a civil war between President Johnson and the nation's influential labor leaders. For just as many weeks Victor Riesel has been reporting to the contrary on the alleged development which would have reshaped the political scene.

Now reports from the White House corroborate Riesel's exclusives. Walter Reuther and George Meany have been in to see the President.

They promised him full support. They told him of "labor's amity." They pooh-poohed reports of a feud.

On this story Riesel was two weeks ahead of the entire field.

For weeks now one of the most important economic stories on the front pages has been the conflict between the President's Council of Economic Advisers and powerful local labor leaders over guideline-smashing, high-wage agreements calling for as much as $54-a-week in raises.

In an exclusive story filed by Riesel on March 1st, he reported the strategy which the Council would use to thwart the labor men who skyrocket regional wages and thus threaten inflation.

Riesel reported that the Council would contact other federal departments, such as the Bureau of Public Roads, and get them to hold up hundreds of millions of dollars worth of contracts destined for the high wage areas such as northern New Jersey.

Exactly 15 days later, Riesel's report was corroborated by the White House and the Council. That is exactly what they plan to do, according to stories now being filed out of the capital.

When our columnist Victor Riesel is not atop a story, he is well ahead of it.

GAVE THEIR OWN ANSWER

It is and it isn't.

The Missouri General Assembly is in special session, but a visitor to the state capitol would have difficulty finding much legislative activity, save for a handful of committee sessions.

As a matter of fact, the House of Representatives hasn't been in session since the first of last week. The entire membership won't return until next Monday.

While much of the legislature's work is done in committee session, and while it is necessary to receive committee reports before the legislature as a whole can act on measures, it is nevertheless rather amusing to watch the legislature's reaction to Governor Hearnes' recommended agenda, which received so many howls of protest when it was first announced.

The lawmakers contended the chief executive was trying to cram too much work into such a short time. When this was said, they proceeded to refile their protests by adjourning for nearly two weeks.

HOMAGE TO JOHANNES

Today isn't Johannes Gutenberg's birthday as far as we know, but it could be. With lawyers asking us to observe Law Day, pickle manufacturers making us aware of National Pickle Week, and merchants promoting Christmas buying throughout the whole year, we ask you now to pause briefly to think of Johannes Gutenberg, the father of modern printing.

Gutenberg wasn't a trouble-maker on purpose. He was an aristocrat and master craftsman. But it happened that he invented the type-mold, making movable type possible, and this opened up a real Pandora's box of problems which have bothered civilization ever since. For movable type vastly simplified the printing and dissemination of ideas.

Feudalism had already started to crumble in Gutenberg's time, but it was the hammer-blows of ideas that brought the walls tumbling down. It was ideas printed on paper which proved valuable to trouble-makers everywhere. Voltaire, a trouble-maker par excellence, helped speed the French Revolution with thousands of pamphlets. English printers, in the late 17th and 18th centuries, spread ideas which liberalized their country. Ornerly men in the American colonies, such as Tom Paine, spread the gospel of liberty with news-sheets and pamphlets. Ideas printed on paper brought men new ways of thinking of themselves and their futures. Ideas made men dissatisfied with their lot, making them demand change.

The world hasn't been the same since men in large numbers started to read about public affairs. Government officials everywhere have never been altogether happy with men who print their ideas on paper and distribute these pieces of paper for other men to read. The air has always been full with gossip, rumor and chatter. But thoughts on paper stay there. They can be read over and over again by many people, and the man who wrote the thoughts can be held to account for what he wrote. Printing is the thinking man's medium; print, the ideal way to put over complex ideas.

Bertrand Russell said in "Why Men Fight": "Thought is subversive and revolutionary, destructive and terrible thought is merciless to privilege, established institutions and comfortable habits; thought is anarchic and lawless, indifferent to authority, careless of the well-tried wisdom of the ages."

We're in the business, and so is every newspaper, of putting thoughts down on paper. Nobody has put a laurel wreath on our editorial brow lately, nor given us a testimonial dinner. There are unquestionably some good citizens of our community who would stand in the street and cheer if our walls came tumbling down. That's par for the course.

We'll lay the blame to Johannes, and recommend that each year on this day we all stop to think what a happy, peaceful, controlled, feudal place this might be, if the man from Mainz hadn't started experimenting with that type-mold.

The Colonel said: "While no wives claim to be infallible, quite a few insist they're always right."

The Journal of the American Medical Association says that there may be an increase in influenza this winter and adds that most people can avoid the disease by proper immunization. The forecast is based on the two to three-year periodicity of the disease. The last major outbreaks were in 1962-63, and on the west coast in 1963-64.

Nearly everything sold in a modern retail store loses value when it is not sold within a short period.

A dress which is not fashionable, cars of out-moded design, and home appliances which do not have the latest improvements are subject to "spoilage" as is the fresh produce in a grocery store.

The consumer often thinks that he gains bargains from the possibility of spoilage. It is the general belief of bargain seekers that the retailer absorbs the loss when goods are not sold during periods of greatest demands.

However, the concept is false. No retailer can stay in business by selling "spoiled" goods at a loss. The cost of spoilage, and the accompanying increased storage costs are passed on to the consumer. The cost has to be added to the price of other goods which the consumer demands.

Spoilage loss is ultimately passed on to the consumer even when old goods are completely discarded.

One of the major economic benefits of advertising to consumer and retailer alike is the reduction of spoilage loss. Ideally, advertising eliminates loss altogether. This is often accomplished by retailers who have learned what to expect of advertising.

A grocer simplified the explanation this way: "It is cheaper to advertise and sell beans at 22 cents a pound than to sell at 35 cents and allow for spoilage and increased storage costs, which is necessary without timely advertising.

a national effort sponsored by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and coordinated in Missouri by the Highway Patrol, involves free, voluntary visits to safety-check lanes during the months of May and June.

Mr. Phillip Johnson of the Ford Motor Company is currently working with the Highway Patrol to coordinate the voluntary safety-check program in Missouri. Personnel from large tire and automobile firms are loaned to give assistance to those states with no vehicle inspection laws.

Last year over thirty thousand vehicles were checked in the Annual Safety-Check Program in Missouri. More than five thousand were found to be faulty, and better than eight thousand unsafe items were revealed.

Colonel E. L. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Highway Patrol, commenting on the importance of the Vehicle Safety-Check, said, "Keeping vehicles in safe operating condition is one phase of an over-all traffic safety program, and is an extremely important part of our total effort to reduce highway accidents."

"We need the help of local groups and organizations to assist in promoting and conducting the voluntary Vehicle Safety-Check Program in Missouri," the Colonel declared.

Any civic organization, school, church, fraternal group or any person interested in sponsoring a free motor vehicle inspection program in their community is urged to contact the State Highway Patrol Troop Headquarters in their area.

A GOOD TRY

The Sunday School teacher was talking to her class about kindness to animals, and told them how the Bible enjoined on us the mercy which a merciful man shows to his beast.

"Now," she said, "suppose one of you saw a bad boy cutting off a cat's tail, what would you say to him, out of the Bible, that would convince him that he was doing something very wrong?"

One of the boys called out, "I would tell him, 'What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.'"

APPALACHIA-ORSUBURBIA? There is a strong suspicion that LBJ may be fighting his "War on Poverty" on the wrong front. youngsters. The accompanying news story developed the sad tale of the family of nine eking out an existence on $1,500 a year. The story, as clarified by the Charlotte Observer, is that $1,500 is the PROFIT Mr. Marlow expects to clear on his tobacco after meeting family expenses.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Housewives will not be present at the closed-door session of the Senate Commerce committee tomorrow when it considers a bill introduced by Sen. Phil Hart, D-Mich., requiring manufacturers to print on the labels of grocery and other packages the exact quantity they contain.

If the homemakers were present they would find that the man who inherited the shoes of the famous consumer protector, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, is not following in Kefauver's footsteps.

Sen. Ross Bass of Tennessee is one of three Democratic key senators on the committee who are holding back against truth-in-labeling.

Two other Democrats, Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, are still undecided.

These three will be the swing votes. All other Democrats except Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, favor protecting the consumer.

Six Republicans, however, will vote solidly against the consumer. They are: Sens. Norris Cotton, N.H., Thurston Morton, Ky., Hugh Scott, Pa., Winston Prouty, Vt., James Pearson, Kans., Peter Dominick, Colo.

LBJ CARRIES ON

Despite the vigorous, sometimes bitter opposition from dove senators, the president has been going about the business of passing legislation as if nothing had happened. Last week he summoned all chairmen of senate committees to the White House to discuss the legislative program. Among them was Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations committee and one of five senators who had voted against Johnson on rescinding the Gulf of Tonkin resolution. This is the resolution which, in the fall of 1964, gave LBJ carte blanche to proceed militarily in Viet Nam. This is the resolution which the president claims authorizes him to carry on the rapidly expanding war in Viet Nam.

Though Fulbright had been one of the most effective opponents of the president and though the president obviously was unhappy about his opposition, the two men talked at the White House meeting as if nothing had happened.

When Johnson asked Fulbright for a report on pending legislation before the Foreign Relations committee, the senator from Arkansas mentioned the Russian Consular Treaty with the United States, and observed that probably the political climate was not conducive to ratifying it.

Fulbright discussed the matter dispassionately, did not mention the fact that J. Edgar Hoover, who holds office at the age of 72 by the grace of the president, had come out with an exhorting blast against consulates conducted by Communists in the United States -- a statement which made ratification of the consular treaty difficult if not impossible. Fulbright also did not mention the fact that this was a treaty which the United States had requested, not the Russians, and that the Russians planned to open no new consulates in the United States.

The president, discussing the treaty with equal dispassion, seemed to think the political climate was not ready. He too did not mention J. Edgar Hoover's statement, and he did not volunteer to get Hoover to clarify the largely distorted facts.

SCHOOL FUNDS

The president went the round of various committee chairmen asking Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., about legislation in the Agriculture department. Ellender had no major farm bills pending.

On the question of the matter of education, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., raised the question of continuing appropriations for impacted school areas. These are areas where military bases or federal installations put an additional burden on local schools to provide for the children of federal employees.

"We're pumping millions into the schools," the president replied, and pulled out a long list of educational appropriations which he read point by point.

"The trouble is that this new federal money won't reach the schools until next year,"

Magnuson pointed out, "and the schools in the impacted areas need the money right now."

After some further discussion, the president observed: "I know you fellows will put some money back in."

LBJ spoke from a quarter of a century of experience in both the house and the senate. As a matter of fact, he and Magnuson entered the house in the same year -- 1937. He knows that Magnuson sits on the appropriations committee, is one of the most potent members of the senate. If he wants money for impacted areas, he will get it.

So ran the matter of fact discussion between the man who lives in the White House and the senators who operate at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, some of whom continue in strong disagreement over Viet Nam, over civil rights, but nevertheless know that the everyday housekeeping job of running the nation must go on.

SUKARNO'S DEBACLE

The ousting of Sukarno, if successfully continued, is the greatest victory for Freedom since the last decisive battle of World War II.

Sukarno, prominent in Java since 1944, was firmly established in 1950 by the U. N., Soviet Union and U. S. A. as Communist dictator of Indonesia. Dr. Frank Graham, following the loss of the U. S. Senate seat, became U. S. Ambassador to the U. N. and handled the Sukarno regime.

The Soviets and U. S. A. displayed close teamwork in supporting Sukarno on a near share and share alike basis, furnishing him with ships, tanks, planes, armaments and munitions to suppress his constructive rivals, including the uprising staged by the anti-Communists in Sumatra. The U. S. A. assisted Sukarno in overthrowing the government of New Guinea, turning New Guinea over to the U. N. October 1, 1962, which then turned it over to Sukarno on May 1, 1963. The U. S. has sent foreign aid to Sukarno amounting to $374 million until he bitterly rejected it, and told us what we could do with, our foreign aid, Indonesia is third among the nations of the world in resources. Its population of 100 million people are 90% Moslem, and since Moslems are vigorous Non-Communists, it has been no small task for the State Department to keep these militant Non-Communists suppressed.

Sukarno was in process of taking over Singapore and Malaysia and needed firmer support in Indonesia which failed about October 1, and this failure led to his present debacle. The probability that Sukarno was taking over these countries was far more alarming than the possibility of our being forced out of South Vietnam, although the U. S. New York: -- Not until the secret intelligence archives of many a nation are aired will the full story be told of the impact on freedom's history by my friend, labor's own leprechaun, Dave Dubinsky.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, March 21, 1952, Tharlish, Georgia: Cloyd Treemis finds use for discarded shoe tongues.

Time and again in recent days our columnist Victor Riesel has been ahead on stories only now making the wires and front pages.

For many weeks there have been reports of a civil war between President Johnson and the nation's influential labor leaders. For just as many weeks Victor Riesel has been reporting to the contrary on the alleged development which would have reshaped the political scene.

Now reports from the White House corroborate Riesel's exclusives. Walter Reuther and George Meany have been in to see the President.

They promised him full support. They told him of "labor's amity." They pooh-poohed reports of a feud.

On this story Riesel was two weeks ahead of the entire field.

For weeks now one of the most important economic stories on the front pages has been the conflict between the President's Council of Economic Advisers and powerful local labor leaders over guideline-smashing, high-wage agreements calling for as much as $54-a-week in raises.

In an exclusive story filed by Riesel on March 1st, he reported the strategy which the Council would use to thwart the labor men who skyrocket regional wages and thus threaten inflation.

Riesel reported that the Council would contact other federal departments, such as the Bureau of Public Roads, and get them to hold up hundreds of millions of dollars worth of contracts destined for the high wage areas such as northern New Jersey.

Exactly 15 days later, Riesel's report was corroborated by the White House and the Council. That is exactly what they plan to do, according to stories now being filed out of the capital.

When our columnist Victor Riesel is not atop a story, he is well ahead of it.

GAVE THEIR OWN ANSWER

It is and it isn't.

The Missouri General Assembly is in special session, but a visitor to the state capitol would have difficulty finding much legislative activity, save for a handful of committee sessions.

As a matter of fact, the House of Representatives hasn't been in session since the first of last week. The entire membership won't return until next Monday.

While much of the legislature's work is done in committee session, and while it is necessary to receive committee reports before the legislature as a whole can act on measures, it is nevertheless rather amusing to watch the legislature's reaction to Governor Hearn's recommended agenda, which received so many howls of protest when it was first announced.

The lawmakers contended the chief executive was trying to cram too much work into such a short time. When this was said, they proceeded to refile their protests by adjourning for nearly two weeks.

HOMAGE TO JOHANNES

Today isn't Johannes Gutenberg's birthday as far as we know, but it could be. With lawyers asking us to observe Law Day, pickle manufacturers making us aware of National Pickle Week, and merchants promoting Christmas buying throughout the whole year, we ask you now to pause briefly to think of Johannes Gutenberg, the father of modern printing.

Gutenberg wasn't a trouble-maker on purpose. He was an aristocrat and master craftsman. But it happened that he invented the type-mold, making movable type possible, and this opened up a real Pandora's box of problems which have bothered civilization ever since. For movable type vastly simplified the printing and dissemination of ideas.

Feudalism had already started to crumble in Gutenberg's time, but it was the hammerblows of ideas that brought the walls tumbling down. It was ideas printed on paper which proved valuable to trouble-makers everywhere. Voltaire, a trouble-maker par excellence, helped speed the French Revolution with thousands of pamphlets. English printers, in the late 17th and 18th centuries, spread ideas which liberalized their country. Orner men in the American colonies, such as Tom Paine, spread the gospel of liberty with news-sheets and pamphlets. Ideas printed on paper brought men new ways of thinking of themselves and their futures. Ideas made men dissatisfied with their lot, making them demand change.

The world hasn't been the same since men in large numbers started to read about public affairs. Government officials everywhere have never been altogether happy with men who print their ideas on paper and distribute these pieces of paper for other men to read. The air has always been full with gossip, rumor and chatter. But thoughts on paper stay there. They can be read over and over again by many people, and the man who wrote the thoughts can be held to account for what he wrote. Printing is the thinking man's medium; print, the ideal way to put over complex ideas.

Bertrand Russell said in "Why Men Fight": "Thought is subversive and revolutionary, destructive and terrible thought is merciless to privilege, established institutions and comfortable habits; thought is anarchic and lawless, indifferent to authority, careless of the well-tried wisdom of the ages."

We're in the business, and so is every newspaper, of putting thoughts down on paper. Nobody has put a laurel wreath on our editorial brow lately, nor given us a testimonial dinner. There are unquestionably some good citizens of our community who would stand in the street and cheer if our walls came tumbling down. That's par for the course.

We'll lay the blame to Johannes, and recommend that each year on this day we all stop to think what a happy, peaceful, controlled, feudal place this might be, if the man from Mainz hadn't started experimenting with that type-mold.

The Journal of the American Medical Association says that there may be an increase in influenza this winter and adds that most people can avoid the disease by proper immunization. The forecast is based on the two to three-year periodicity of the disease. The last major outbreaks were in 1962-63, and on the west coast in 1963-64.

Nearly everything sold in a modern retail store loses value when it is not sold within a short period.

A dress which is not fashionable, cars of out-moded design, and home appliances which do not have the latest improvements are subject to "spoilage" as is the fresh produce in a grocery store.

The consumer often thinks that he gains bargains from the possibility of spoilage. It is the general belief of bargain seekers that the retailer absorbs the loss when goods are not sold during periods of greatest demands.

However, the concept is false. No retailer can stay in business by selling "spoiled" goods at a loss. The cost of spoilage, and the accompanying increased storage costs are passed on to the consumer. The cost has to be added to the price of other goods which the consumer demands.

Spoilage loss is ultimately passed on to the consumer even when old goods are completely discarded.

One of the major economic benefits of advertising to consumer and retailer alike is the reduction of spoilage loss. Ideally, advertising eliminates loss altogether. This is often accomplished by retailers who have learned what to expect of advertising.

A grocer simplified the explanation this way: "It is cheaper to advertise and sell beans at 22 cents a pound than to sell at 35 cents and allow for spoilage and increased storage costs, which is necessary without timely advertising."

Sen. Ross Bass of Tennessee is one of three Democratic key senators on the committee who are holding back against truth-in-labeling.

Two other Democrats, Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, are still undecided.

These three will be the swing votes. All other Democrats except Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, favor protecting the consumer.

Six Republicans, however, will vote solidly against the consumer. They are: Sens. Norris Cotton, N. H., Thurston Morton, Ky., Hugh Scott, Pa., Winston Prouty, Vt., James Pearson, Kans., Peter Dominick, Colo.

LBJ CARRIES ON
Despite the vigorous, sometimes bitter opposition from dove senators, the president has been going about the business of passing legislation as if nothing had happened. Last week he summoned all chairmen of senate committees to the White House to discuss the legislative program. Among them was Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations committee and one of five senators who had voted against Johnson on resolution of the Gulf of Tonkin.

This is the resolution which the president claims authorizes him to carry on the rapidly expanding war in Viet Nam.

Women catch more colds than do men. Summer colds usually are harder to get rid of than winter colds. The older you get, the fewer colds you are likely to get.

Living it up: Despite widespread prosperity, millions of Americans are only one paycheck away from bankruptcy. Studies show that a third of all families with incomes between $5,000 and $7,000 have no savings at all. The same is true for almost a fourth of families earning from $7,000 to $10,000 yearly.

What are the chances of your children graduating from college - even if you can get them into one? Only about 40 per cent of freshmen earn their degrees within four years, and only 60 per cent ever get a sheepskin.

War may not be normal, but it sure is habitual. It is estimated that only 8 per cent of the time since the beginning of recorded history has the civilized world been entirely at peace.

a national effort sponsored by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and coordinated in Missouri by the Highway Patrol, involves free, voluntary visits to safety-check lanes during the months of May and June.

Mr. Phillip Johnson of the Ford Motor Company is currently working with the Highway Patrol to coordinate the voluntary Safety-Check Program in Missouri. Personnel from large tire and automobile firms are loaned to give assistance to those states with no vehicle inspection laws.

Last year over thirty thousand vehicles were checked in the Annual Safety-Check Program in Missouri. More than five thousand were found to be faulty, and better than eight thousand unsafe items were revealed.

Colonel E. L. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Highway Patrol, commenting on the importance of the Vehicle Safety-Check, said, "Keeping vehicles in safe operating condition is one phase of an over-all traffic safety program, and is an extremely important part of our total effort to reduce highway accidents."

"We need the help of local groups and organizations to assist in promoting and conducting the voluntary Vehicle Safety-Check Program in Missouri," the Colonel declared.

Any civic organization, school, church, fraternal group or any person interested in sponsoring a free motor vehicle inspection program in their community is urged to contact the State Highway Patrol Troop Headquarters in their area.

A GOOD TRY
The Sunday School teacher was talking to her class about kindness to animals, and told them how the Bible enjoined on us the mercy which a merciful man shows to his beast.

"Now," she said, "suppose one of you saw a bad boy cutting off a cat's tail, what would you say to him, out of the Bible, that would convince him that he was doing something very wrong?"

One of the boys called out, "I would tell him, 'What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.'"

HAD ENOUGH
As the train coming into Chicago drew near the big stockyards, a lady passenger opened her bottle of smelling salts. The train came still closer to the yards, and soon the horrible animal odor permeated the car.

A farmer on board endured it as long as he could, but finally cried out, "Gosh, lady, would you lend puttin' that cork back in th' bottle?"

APPALACHIA-OR SUBURBIA?
There is a strong suspicion that LBJ may be fighting his "War on Poverty" on the wrong front. On his second foray of the "war," President Johnson was photographed sitting on the steps of the David Marlow home near Rocky Mount, N.C., chatting with the Marlows and surrounded by their seven fine-looking, neatly-dressed youngsters. The accompanying news story developed the sad tale of the family of nine eking out an existence on $1,500 a year. The story, as clarified by the Charlotte Observer, is that $1,500 is the PROFIT Mr. Marlow expects to clear on his tobacco after meeting family expenses.

Better, our President should visit some of our glossy apartment houses and country club suburbs -- where nobody has a dime when the bills are paid.

the two men talked at the White House meeting as if nothing had happened.

When Johnson asked Fulbright for a report on pending legislation before the Foreign Relations committee, the senator from Arkansas mentioned the Russian Consular Treaty with the United States, and observed that probably the political climate was not conducive to ratifying it.

Fulbright discussed the matter dispassionately, did not mention the fact that J. Edgar Hoover, who holds office at the age of 72 by the grace of the president, had come out with an exhorting blast against consulates conducted by Communist countries in the United States -- a statement which made ratification of the consular treaty difficult if not impossible.

Fulbright also did not mention the fact that this was a treaty which the United States had requested, not the Russians, and that the Russians planned to open no new consulates in the United States.

The president, discussing the treaty with equal dispassion, seemed to think the political climate was not ready. He too did not mention J. Edgar Hoover's statement, and he did not volunteer to get Hoover to clarify the largely distorted facts.

SCHOOL FUNDS
The president went the round of various committee chairmen asking Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., about legislation in the Agriculture department. Ellender had no major farm bills pending.

On the question of the matter of education, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., raised the question of continuing appropriations for impacted school areas. These are areas where military bases or federal installations put an additional burden on local schools to provide for the children of federal employees.

"We're pumping millions into the schools," the president replied, and pulled out a long list of educational appropriations which he read point by point.

"The trouble is that this new federal money won't reach the schools until next year,"

Thus it was logical he would telephone President Lyndon Johnson to inform him, amongst other matters, that he was resigning after 34 years. President Kennedy chuckled and said come into my office. They talked. After 20 minutes DD got up and said that Franklin Roosevelt once told him, with typical FDR humor, it was unpatriotic to visit more than 20 minutes with the President of the U. S. -- and then would keep DD two hours.

Hawks Win Playoff

DETROIT AP — The St. Louis Hawks rallied in the last five minutes Sunday and beat the Detroit Pistons, 121-117, in clinching a tie for third place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association.

By winning the Hawks put the pressure on the San Francisco Warriors who had to win at Los Angeles Sunday night to keep alive their feeble hopes for the final undecided NBA playoff position.

Player-coach Richie Guerin provided early and late spark for the Hawks, who saw a 21-point second quarter lead evaporate to a five-point deficit late in the fourth period.

With Detroit on top 109-104, Guerin started the Hawks to their victorious comeback with a basket, and he chipped in with four free throws and another basket in the final 90 seconds.

Guerin, who will retire at the end of the campaign as an active player, notched 13 off his team's first 18 points. Bill Bridges picked up from there and moved the Hawks ahead 64-63 before halftime.

Detroit stormed back on the shooting of its player-coach, Dave DeBusschere, Ray Scott and Eddie Miles and pulled even at 91-91 after three periods and then got a short-lived lead.

Guerin finished with 37 points and Bridges 29. DeBusschere had 31 and Scott 29.

The defeat gave the Pistons a final season's record of 22-58, the most losses the club has suffered in its history for one campaign.

On Saturday night, the Hawks wound up their regular-season home schedule with a 115-112 victory over the Pistons at Kiel Auditorium.

Center Zelmo Beaty led the winners with 25 points and 15 rebounds while Len Wilkens and Joe Caldwell each fired in 22 points. Scott was high for the Pistons with 20.

Tigers Win In Seventh Over Cards

The defensive minded Cardinals fell to the Detroit Tigers Sunday afternoon 9-4 after leading 3-2 going into the seventh inning when everything exploded for the Cards, as the Tigers sent 12 batters to the plate, and scored seven runs helped by Hal Woodeshick's lack of control as he issued four walks and four safeties. An error by McCraver also figured in the decisive seventh inning uprising that dropped the Birds record to 3-6 in the Citrus League.

The Cards gave up eight bases on balls with Gibson handing out three, Woodeshick four and Aust one.

The Tigers whacked the Cards for 10 hits. Talented Al Kaline drove in three runs for a 2 for three effort and a sacrifice fly, and Oyster scored three times and also had two RBIs.

The Tigers posted their fourth straight win, and hold a 7-2 record in the Grapefruit circuit.

Kentucky Upset By Texas Western

By GORDON BEARD Associated Press Sports Writer COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Coach Don Haskins felt like a "young punk" after his Texas Western Miners won the national collegiate basketball championship.

The 36-year-old Haskins and his underdog Miners had just scored a 72-65 upset over the Old Master, Adolph Rupp, and his Kentucky Wildcats. Duke edged Utah 79-77 for third place.

"It's quite a thrill for me, a kind of young punk," Haskins said. "It's great just playing in a game with Mr. Rupp, let alone winning it."

Although both teams entered the title game with identical 27-1 records, Kentucky was an eight-point favorite to win its fifth NCAA championship. No other school has won more than two.

Kentucky was ranked No. 1 in the nation after the regular season and Texas Western was No. 3, with the suspicion that the Miners didn't play too hard a schedule. Haskins disagreed.

"We don't worry about that kind of talk," Haskins said. "We played a lot of good teams before we got here. We played a lot of teams like ourselves...ones without a name."

Texas Western should no longer remain in that category.

Since Haskins arrived at the El Paso, Tex., school five years ago, the Miners have won 108 games and lost only 26.

Three times in the past four years, the Miners have received a bid as an independent to play in the NCAA tournament. In 1964, they went to the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

As a former player under Hank Iba at Oklahoma State, Haskins stresses defensive basketball and he contends it was defense which upended Kentucky.

"It was one of the finest defensive games we played all season," Haskins said. "The boys knew Kentucky could shoot exceptionally well and that if they didn't play a fine defensive game, they would wind up second."

Rupp said his Wildcats didn't challenge the defense, but were shooting when the opposing player was still 10 feet away.

"We weren't shooting well and our ball handling wasn't good," Rupp said. "When those two things break down, you're in trouble."

Kentucky closed to within 39-38 early in the second half but Texas Western stretched its advantage to 68-57 and then staved off the Wildcats in the closing minutes.

Baseball Suit Continues Today

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — If defense attorneys take as long to present their case in Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball as the state did, the trial may run within a week of the opening of the major league season.

There are indications baseball attorneys may take that long, and maybe longer.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller ordered the first Saturday session in the trial last week after hinting he may keep attorneys in court overtime for night sessions also.

But National League attorney Bowie Kuhn objected that the lengthy hours were grueling and asked Roller for a 9:40-5 Monday-through-Friday schedule. Roller told Kuhn he would try to accommodate him, but made no promises.

The suit against the league and its 10 member clubs went to trial Feb. 28. Wisconsin charges violation of its antitrust laws by baseball's approval of the shift of the Braves from Milwaukee to Atlanta, leaving this city without a major league team.

The state's day in court lasted 14 days. Baseball attorneys began their defense Friday.

If the defense takes 14 courtroom days on a five-day weekly schedule, it would wind up its presentation April 5. The Braves are scheduled to open in Atlanta April 12.

Roller already has instructed baseball to be prepared to keep the Braves in Milwaukee this year if such is eventually ordered by the court. He has also told the league to make plans for expansion this season.

SEMO Coaches Play Tonight

A group of basketball stars able to shoot from the hip, fire from any spot on the floor and handle the ball like a knife and fork invades Ilmo-Scott City to face the SEMO coaches tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Strictly amazing and strictly big league, the Fabulous Magicians this season takes a record of 816 victories without a loss over the 1964-65 campaign into the nation's most important basketball arenas.

Owned by Margues Haynes, called by every competent observer in basketball the game's most proficient dribbler, the Magicians feature a dazzling type of ball-handling with the sound base of a team able to move against the best competition in the nation.

They feature such stars as Bob "Trick" Woods, a combination of roundball wizardry and master comedian, along with Josh Grider, one of the great set-shots of all time, 6' 8" Paul Plewden, and Kansas State's All-American, Willie Murrell.

Backing this magnificent trio of talent and contributing to the club's rebounding strength are such stalwarts as Paul "Morehouse" Martin, 6' 7" giant from Morehouse College of Atlanta, and Tom Gipson of L.A., California.

This season's schedule will again take the Magicians into famed Madison Square Garden in New York, as well as into the Boston Garden and arenas in practically every major town in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, and South America.

Haynes organized the Magicians in 1953 and was joined shortly thereafter by Grider, who became part of the official family.

You have to see this polished machine to believe it. They bounce the ball through the hoop, fast-break with a dazzling ball-handling style that gets laughs from the fans and amazed and bewildered frowns from opponents.

Mark down the date of the Magicians' appearance in Ilmo-Scott City and take the entire family to see an evening of wholesome and entertaining athletic wizardry.

The SEMO coaches team will be comprised of Grady Smith coach of Puxico high school, Vivian Reed coach of the Campbell high school, Nemoon Townsend, Charles Pardon coach at the Scott County Central high school, Lavern Garner coach of the Malden high school, Win Wilford coach at Neelyville, Jim Hall coach of the Dexter high school, Ryland Meyer assistant coach at Cape Central high school, Jim Hart presently coaching at East Prairie high school, and Kenny Wages assistant coach at Scott County Central high school.

SEARCY, ARK. -- Pete Burns, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rice Burns Sr., 1206 Ruth St., Sikeston, is a member of the Harding College baseball team for the 1966 season.

According to Bison mentor Ted Altman, Burns shows promise as a pitcher. Harding lost their leading hurler, All-conference Mike Plummer to a knee injury, and this makes their need for pitchers great.

Harding finished with a 10-10 record last year and Altman expects a better year if the pitching comes through.

Eleven lettermen return to help mold the squad. Only four seniors dot the squad of 23 boys making things look bright for the year and years to come.

Burns is a freshman Pre-Med major.

Cardinals To Honor Former Baseball Stars

Eleven Cardinals stars who had their moments of glory in historic Busch Stadium will have an opportunity to relive those memorable events at the Red Birds' first 11 games of the season, the baseball team announced.

A panel of St. Louis sports-writers and announcers will vote for the 11 greatest Cardinals who are still living but retired as players, and one will be present to be honored at each game the Red Birds play in the park that has been their home since 1920. The Cardinals have won 10 National League pennants and seven world series championships in their years at Busch Stadium.

Once the voting is completed, C. C. Johnson Spink, publisher of The Sporting News, will tabulate the ballots. The names of the honored athletes will be announced in the near future.

The Cardinals open the season on April 12 against Philadelphia, and will play Pittsburgh, New York and San Francisco before they move downtown to the new Busch Memorial Stadium.

To add to this memorable occasion, everyone who attends the games will receive a gold colored coin featuring a sketch and career highlights of the player being honored. The coin is 1 1/2 inches in diameter. In addition, everyone who attends the opener against the Phillies will receive a Cardinal commemorative coin holder that will have both an easel and

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) -- Coach Don Haskins felt like a lucky "young punk" after his Texas Western Miners won the national collegiate basketball championship.

The 36-year-old Haskins and his underdog Miners had just scored a 72-65 upset over the Old Master, Adolph Rupp, and his Kentucky Wildcats. Duke edged Utah 79-77 for third place.

"It's quite a thrill for me, a kind of young punk," Haskins said. "It's great just playing in a game with Mr. Rupp, let alone winning it."

Although both teams entered the title game with identical 27-1 records, Kentucky was an eight-point favorite to win its fifth NCAA championship. No other school has won more than two.

Kentucky was ranked No. 1 in the nation after the regular season and Texas Western was No. 3, with the suspicion that the Miners didn't play too hard a schedule. Haskins disagreed.

"We don't worry about that kind of talk," Haskins said. "We played a lot of good teams before we got here. We played a lot of teams like ourselves... ones without a name."

Texas Western's no-nonsense remain in that category.

SEMO Coaches Play Tonight

A group of basketball stars able to shoot from the hip, fire from any spot on the floor and handle the ball like a knife and fork invades Ilmo-Scott City to face the SEMO coaches tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Strictly amazing and strictly big league, the Fabulous Magicians this season takes a record of 816 victories without a loss over the 1964-65 campaign into the nation's most important basketball arenas.

Owned by Margues Haynes, called by every competent observer in basketball the game's most proficient dribbler, the Magicians feature a dazzling type of ball-handling with the sound base of a team able to move against the best competition in the nation.

They feature such stars as Bob "Trick" Woods, a combination of roundball wizardry and master comedian, along with Josh Grider, one of the great set-shots of all time, 6' 8" Paul Plewden, and Kansas State's All-American, Willie Murrell.

Backing this magnificent trip of talent and contributing to the club's rebounding strength are such stalwarts as Paul "Morehouse" Martin, 6' 7" giant from Morehouse College of Atlanta, and Tom Gipson of L.A., California.

This season's schedule will again take the Magicians into famed Madison Square Garden in New York, as well as into the Boston Garden and arenas in practically every major town in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, and South America.

Haynes organized the Magicians in 1953 and was joined shortly thereafter by Grider, who became part of the official family.

You have to see this polished machine to believe it. They bounce the ball through the hoop, fast-break with a dazzling ball-handling style that gets laughs from the fans and amazed and bewildered frowns from opponents.

Mark down the date of the Magicians' appearance in Ilmo-Scott City and take the entire family to see an evening of wholesome and entertaining athletic wizardry.

The SEMO coaches team will be comprised of Grady Smith coach of Puxico high school, Vivian Reed coach of the Campbell high school, Namon Townsend, Charles Pardon coach of the Scott County Central high school, Lavern Garner coach of the Malden high school, Wm Wilfong coach at Neelyville, Jim Hall coach of the Dexter high school, Ryland Meyer assistant coach at Cape Central high school, Jim Hart presently coaching at East Prairie high school, and Kenny Wages assistant coach at Scott County Central high school.

Sayadoff Joins FBI List of 10

WASHINGTON -- Jack Daniel Sayadoff, a convicted bank robber charged with holdups of Illinois, California and Ohio banks, plus a kidnapping and interstate transportation of a stolen car, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

He and a female accomplice, Patsy Ann Janakos, allegedly abducted an elderly baby sitter on October 8, 1965, leaving her bound and gagged in a Newark, California, residence, and fled with Janakos' three-year-old daughter who had been placed in her father's custody pending divorce proceedings. While trying to free herself to call police, the baby sitter fell and broke her hip.

On Oct. 21, a lone bandit, later identified as Sayadoff, robbed the Uptown Federal Savings and Loan Association, 4545 North Broadway, Chicago, Illinois, of $1549. The robber fled with the loot in a brown paper bag which he indicated also contained a gun.

Then, on Dec. 8, Sayadoff and a female accomplice allegedly robbed the 38th and Balboa Branch of the Bank of America, San Francisco, California, of $3131. After menacing several bank employees with a snub-nosed revolver, the bank robber placed the loot from four tellers' cages in an attache case and fled with his accomplice after warning employees not to turn around or "I'll blow your brains out."

On Jan. 6, Sayadoff, aided again by a female accomplice, allegedly robbed the Lakewood, Ohio, office of The Second Federal Savings and Loan Association of $2816.

The fast-moving Sayadoff is also charged with the interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, rented in Los Angeles, California, in October, 1965, and abandoned at a Cleveland airport in November.

Federal warrants, charging Sayadoff with bank robbery were issued at San Francisco, California, on Dec. 9, Cleveland, Ohio, on Jan. 21, and Chicago, on March 4. In addition, both Sayadoff and Janakos were charged in Federal warrants issued at Oakland, Calif. Nov. 10 for unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for kidnapping and at Cleveland, on Jan. 21, for interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Sayadoff, a heavily tattooed native of Hartford, Conn. has a criminal record which began in Connecticut in 1952 when he was convicted of breaking and entering and place on probation for one year. In January of 1955, following his arrest in Augusta, Georgia, for armed robbery, he was convicted on three robbery counts and sentenced to ten years in the Georgia State Prison.

In August of 1959, following conviction in California for bank robbery, he was given an indeterminate sentence and confined at the Federal Correctional Institution in Lompoc, California. He escaped from Federal custody in December, 1960, and was given an additional sentence of a year and a day upon being recaptured. He was paroled in February, 1964.

Sayadoff, a white American, was born on October 2, 1935, at Hartford, Connecticut. He is 5'9" to 5'10" tall, weighs 170 to 175 pounds, has black hair, brown eyes, a medium build and a medium complexion. He has burn scars on both legs and his chest, skin graft marks on his back and a cut scar on his inner left forearm. Tattooed on his left arm are an eagle, a girl and "U. S. Army." Another tattoo of a girl appears on the upper part of his right arm and the words "Born to lose" are tattooed on his right forearm. An arrowhead is tattooed on the inside of his right forearm. He has worked as a bartender, laborer and painter.

Patsy Ann Janakos, who is believed accompanying Sayadoff in his flight, is a White American who was born at Woodruff, Nebraska, on November 12, 1935. She is 5'6" tall, weighs 130 pounds, has brown eyes, usually wears glasses, and has dark brown hair which may be dyed black and is sometimes covered with a blonde wig.

Sayadoff is reportedly a neat dresser who frequents better hotels, likes expensive late model rental cars and enjoys good food, being especially fond of spaghetti and Syrian dishes. He is also said to like popcorn, candy, coffee with cream and sugar, music, poker, movies and television which he watches extensively. Both Sayadoff and his companion, Janakos, reportedly drink expensive whiskey and smoke cigarettes. He is additionally noted for his boastful, argumentative and temperamental behavior and is said to be extremely jealous of Janakos.

Janakos reportedly frequents beauty parlors weekly, wears dark sunglasses, even indoors, and spends money from Sayadoff lavishly on clothes.

Both Sayadoff and Janakos should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Janakos has received psychiatric treatment in the past.

Should anyone receive information concerning Daniel Sayadoff or Patsy Ann Janakos he is requested to notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Specials Don't Fit

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) -- NBC's Television Hour, turning up every other Sunday at 5:30 p.m., somehow seems to match nicely the viewer's Sunday evening mood. Some of the public affairs programs that are placed there on the alternate weeks, however worthy, are not such a happy fit.

A case in point was Sunday evening's "The Reformation," a handsomely illustrated lecture on 16th century European history. It was a timely subject and an interesting explanation of the great religious revolt by the flinty Martin Luther and John Calvin, which established Protestantism amid ecclesiastical and political turbulence.

The program suggested that we may now be on the verge of a second Reformation of a different character since the recent Vatican Ecumenical Council has been breaking some of the barriers between Christian unity.

The color cameras wandered around handsome old palaces and over serene pastoral scenes which were sites of stormy events long past, and lovingly scanned ancient portraits and crumbling documents.

But it was not enough to really bring the story to life and the result was a slow, dragging hour. The narration appeared to be especially framed to avoid awkward phrases or misinterpretation. This very caution meant that some of the high drama and fierce conflict was glossed over.

Perhaps the program would have gone down a bit easier during an earlier Sunday hour. But it was not right sandwiched between Frank McGee's news show and a Walt Disney tale of an escaped circus tiger.

Desi Arnaz, the orchestra leader turned comedian turned tycoon, will return to television as a creator and developer of new programs, CBS said.

Arnaz sold his interest in the Desilu Studios a year after he and Lucille Ball were divorced. Now he has formed a new production company to work on four specific properties for CBS aimed at the 1967-68 season as well as feature motion pictures.

History Against Warren Critics

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Should the Supreme Court's nine justices, including the chief justice, have previous judicial experience before sitting on the nation's highest tribunal?

The Constitution doesn't say so. It doesn't even say a justice has to be a lawyer although all the justices in history have been.

But some critics of Earl Warren hold it against him that he did not have previous experience on the bench before he was named chief justice in 1953. History is against the critics.

There have been 13 chief justices, 14 if John Rutledge of South Carolina is included. But he presided only four months and then left after the Senate failed to approve him.

Of the 13, only five had previous judicial experience in state or lower federal courts. So Warren is among the majority who didn't have that background.

There have been a number of attempts in the Senate to impose experience requirements on would-be justices. They got nowhere. Nor did several recent tries by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

He proposed that every other man appointed to the high court must have at least 10 years' previous experience on lower federal courts or state courts.

Only one chief justice in American history could have met that requirement: President William Howard Taft who was chief justice from 1921 to 1930. He served three years as an Ohio judge and eight as a federal circuit judge before joining the Supreme Court.

Further, not one of the nine justices now on the court could have qualified. Besides Warren, Justices Abe Fortas, Byron R. White, William O. Douglas and Tom C. Clark had no previous judicial experience.

It's questionable whether Justice Hugo L. Black could have qualified as having any previous judicial experience. He served about a year as a police court judge in Birmingham, Ala.

The other three justices had some previous judicial experience but none as much as 10 years.

William J. Brennan was on New Jersey's high courts eight years; Potter Stewart served five on the U.S. Court of Appeals; and John M. Harlan put in one on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Besides Warren, the chief justices who had no previous judicial experience outside the Supreme Court were: John Marshall, Roger B. Taney, Salmon P. Chase, Morrison R. White, Melville W. Fuller, Charles Evans Hughes and Harlan F. Stone.

Those with previous experience were John J. Jay, for a brief time chief justice of the New York Supreme Court; Oliver Ellsworth, four years on the Connecticut Superior Court; Edward D. White, one year on the Louisiana Supreme Court; and Frederick M. Vinson, for five years a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

When Warren reached 75 last Saturday and said he had no intention of retiring, there was some speculation he might continue until he had set a record for service.

This seems unlikely. To set such a record he'd have to serve another 22 years for a total of 97 years but by then he'd be 97. The longest service by any justice was that of S. J. Field, an associate justice, who served 34 years, eight months, 15 days, and retired in 1897 at 81.

RONALD W. WADDELL has been appointed sales manager of the truck division, The Colson Corporation, a Chicago headquartered producer of material handling equipment. He will direct sales activities from the company's plant in Caruthersville.

Two Boys Cited After Collision

KENNETT -- A 17-year-old Kennett boy was cited for careless and reckless driving and a 16-year-old boy was turned over to juvenile authorities after what a witness described as a drag race ended in a three-vehicle collision.

The accident happened about 2:45 p.m. near the high school.

According to City Policemen Don Wilson and Harold Sturgeon, who investigated the incident, a witness to the accident said Robert Glenn Fox, 17, driving a 1964 Valiant west was driving at a fast rate of speed beside a 1965 MG, driven by a juvenile.

Fox was in the left hand lane. As Fox started to pass the MG, another juvenile, driving a 1962 Valiant, made a left turn into a private drive near the school and was struck in the left front wheel by the Fox vehicle.

The car driven by Fox continued on into a yard, struck a panel truck and then came to rest after the rear of the car hit a tree.

The other car came to rest across the street.

The other juvenile, reportedly racing with Fox, drove off. He was located later by police.

None of the youngsters were injured in the accident, but Fox was issued a summons for careless and reckless driving and the 16-year-old juvenile driving the MG was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Charges are Dismissed Against Trio

KENNETT -- Three felony charges involving three boys from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, were dismissed by Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, who represented the State, in magistrate court Thursday.

The prosecuting attorney explained his decision, "I learned that the alleged crime was the result of a prank and that the boys were guilty of bad judgment at the most. Consequently, the charges were dismissed. I do not believe that I should initiate any publicity regarding these boys."

The three students had been arrested by members of the Malden police department at 1 a.m. Wednesday in connection with the theft of a pickup truck belonging to a Parma resident.

No other felonies, no misdemeanors and only traffic cases were included in the magistrate court proceedings over which Judge Leon McAnally presided.

Sayadoff Joins FBI List of 10

WASHINGTON -- Jack Daniel Sayadoff, a convicted bank robber charged with holdups of Illinois, California and Ohio banks, plus a kidnapping and interstate transportation of a stolen car, has been added to the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives.

He and a female accomplice, Patsy Ann Janakos, allegedly abducted an elderly baby sitter on October 8, 1965, leaving her bound and gagged in a Newark, California, residence, and fled with Janakos' three-year-old daughter who had been placed in her father's custody pending divorce proceedings. While trying to free herself to call police, the baby sitter fell and broke her hip.

On Oct. 21, a lone bandit, later identified as Sayadoff, robbed the Uptown Federal Savings and Loan Association, 4545 North Broadway, Chicago, Illinois, of $1549. The robber fled with the loot in a brown paper bag which he indicated also contained a gun.

Then, on Dec. 8, Sayadoff and a female accomplice allegedly robbed the 38th and Balboa Branch of the Bank of America, San Francisco, California, of $3131. After menacing several bank employees with a snub-nosed revolver, the bank robber placed the loot from four tellers' cages in an attache case and fled with his accomplice after warning employees not to turn around or "I'll blow your brains out."

On Jan. 6, Sayadoff, aided again by a female accomplice, allegedly robbed the Lakewood, Ohio, office of The Second Federal Savings and Loan Association of $2816.

The fast-moving Sayadoff is also charged with the interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, rented in Los Angeles, California, in October, 1965, and abandoned at a Cleveland airport in November.

Federal warrants, charging Sayadoff with bank robbery were issued at San Francisco, California, on Dec. 9, Cleveland, Ohio, on Jan. 21, and Chicago, on March 4. In addition, both Sayadoff and Janakos were charged in Federal warrants issued at Oakland, Calif. Nov. 10 for unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for kidnapping and at Cleveland, on Jan. 21, for interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Sayadoff, a heavily tattooed native of Hartford, Conn. has a criminal record which began in Connecticut in 1952 when he was convicted of breaking and entering and place on probation for one year. In January of 1955, following his arrest in Augusta, Georgia, for armed robbery, he was convicted on three robbery counts and sentenced to ten years in the Georgia State Prison.

In August of 1959, following conviction in California for bank robbery, he was given an indeterminate sentence and confined at the Federal Correctional Institution in Lompoc, California. He escaped from Federal custody in December, 1960, and was given an additional sentence of a year and a day upon being recaptured. He was paroled in February, 1964.

Sayadoff, a white American, was born on October 2, 1935, at Hartford, Connecticut. He is 5'9" to 5'10" tall, weighs 170 to 175 pounds, has black hair, brown eyes, a medium build and a medium complexion. He has burn scars on both legs and his chest, skin graft marks on his back and a cut scar on his inner left arm. Tattooed on his left arm are an eagle, a girl and "S. Army." Another tattoo of a girl appears on the upper part of his right arm and the words "Born to lose" are tattooed on his right forearm. An arrowhead is tattooed on the inside of his right forearm. He has worked as a bartender, laborer and painter.

Patsy Ann Janakos, who is believed accompanying Sayadoff in his flight, is a white American who was born at Woodruff, Nebraska, on November 12, 1935. She is 5'6" tall, weighs 130 pounds, has brown eyes, usually wears glasses, and has dark brown hair which may be dyed black and is sometimes covered with a blonde wig.

Sayadoff is reportedly a neat dresser who frequents better hotels, likes expensive late model rental cars and enjoys good food, being especially fond of spaghetti and Syrian dishes. He is also said to like popcorn, candy, coffee with cream and sugar, music, poker, movies and television which he watches extensively. Both Sayadoff and his companion, Janakos, reportedly drink expensive whiskey and smoke cigarettes. He is additionally noted for his boastful, argumentative and temperamental behavior and is said to be extremely jealous of Janakos.

Both Sayadoff and Janakos should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Janakos has received psychiatric treatment in the past.

Specials Don't Fit

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) -- NBC's Telephone Hour, turning up every other Sunday at 5:30 p.m. somehow seems to match nicely the viewer's Sunday evening mood. Some of the public affairs programs that are placed there on the alternate weeks, however worthy, are not such a happy fit.

A case in point was Sunday evening's "The Reformation," a handsomely illustrated lecture on 16th century European history. It was a timely subject and an interesting explanation of the great religious revolted by the flinty Martin Luther and John Calvin, which established Protestantism amid ecclesiastical and political turbulence.

The program suggested that we may now be on the verge of a second Reformation of a different character since the recent Vatican Ecumenical Council has been breaking some of the barriers between Christian unity.

The color cameras wandered around handsome old palaces and over serene pastoral scenes which were sites of stormy events long past, and lovingly scanned ancient portraits and crumbling documents.

But it was not enough to really bring the story to life and the result was a slow, dragging hour. The narration appeared to be especially framed to avoid awkward phrases or misinterpretation. This very caution meant that some of the high drama and fierce conflict was glossed over.

Perhaps the program would have gone down a bit easier during an earlier Sunday hour. But it was not right sandwiched between Frank McGee's news show and a Walt Disney tale of an escaped circus tiger.

Desi Arnaz, the orchestra leader turned comedian turned tycoon, will return to television as a creator and developer of new programs, CBS said.

Arnaz sold his interest in the Desilu Studios a year after he and Lucille Ball were divorced.

Now he has formed a new production company to work on four specific properties for CBS aimed at the 1967-68 season as well as feature motion pictures.

History Against Warren Critics

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Should the Supreme Court's nine justices, including the chief justice, have previous judicial experience before sitting on the nation's highest tribunal?

The Constitution doesn't say so. It doesn't even say a justice has to be a lawyer although all the justices in history have been.

But some critics of Earl Warren hold it against him that he did not have previous experience on the bench before he was named chief justice in 1953. History is against the critics.

There have been 13 chief justices, 14 if John Rutledge of South Carolina is included. But he presided only four months and then left after the Senate failed to approve him.

Of the 13, only five had previous judicial experience in state or lower federal courts. So Warren is among the majority who didn't have that background.

There have been a number of attempts in the Senate to impose experience requirements on would-be justices. They got nowhere. Nor did several recent tries by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

He proposed that every other man appointed to the high court must have at least 10 years' previous experience on lower federal courts or state courts.

Only one chief justice in American history could have met that requirement: President William Howard Taft who was chief justice from 1921 to 1930. He served three years as an Ohio judge and eight as a federal circuit judge before joining the Supreme Court.

Further, not one of the nine justices now on the court could have qualified. Besides Warren, Justices Abe Fortas, Byron R. White, William O. Douglas and Tom C. Clark had no previous judicial experience.

It's questionable whether Justice Hugo L. Black could have qualified as having any previous judicial experience. He served about a year as a police court judge in Birmingham, Ala.

The other three justices had some previous judicial experience but none as much as 10 years.

William J. Brennan was on New Jersey's high courts eight years; Potter Stewart served five on the U.S. Court of Appeals; and John M. Harlan put in one on the U.S. Court of Appeals.

RONALD W. WADDELL has been appointed sales manager of the truck division, The Colson Corporation, a Chicago headquartered producer of material handling equipment. He will direct sales activities from the company's plant in Caruthersville.

Two Boys Cited After Collision

KENNETT -- A 17-year-old Tennett boy was cited for careless and reckless driving and a 16-year-old boy was turned over to juvenile authorities after what a witness described as a drag race ended in a three-vehicle collision.

The accident happened about 2:45 p.m. near the high school. According to City Policemen Don Wilson and Harold Sturgeon, who investigated the incident, a witness to the accident said Robert Glenn Fox, 17, driving a 1964 Valiant west was driving at a fast rate of speed beside a 1965 MG, driven by a juvenile.

Fox was in the left hand lane. As Fox started to pass the MG, another juvenile, driving a 1962 Valiant, made a left turn into a private drive near the school and was struck in the left front wheel by the Fox vehicle.

The car driven by Fox continued on into a yard, struck a panel truck and then came to rest after the rear of the car hit a tree.

The other car came to rest across the street.

The other juvenile, reportedly racing with Fox, drove off. He was located later by police.

None of the youngsters were injured in the accident, but Fox was issued a summons for careless and reckless driving and the 16-year-old juvenile driving the MG was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Campaign Opened to Pass School Bonds

CHARLESTON -- A citizens' committee which last year directed the drive to pass the high school bond issue has been reactivated, according to Chairman Buck Drinkwater.

The committee was called back into service last week after a St. Louis bonding attorney ruled the March, 1965, bond issue unsaleable. The issue will be submitted to the voters at a special R-1 school election scheduled for March 29.

Chairman of the steering committee will be Art Wallhausen Jr.

Team leaders are: Charleston Northwest, Marion Waggener; Northeast, William McNeary; Southwest, William Marshall Curran; and Southeast, William G. Knight. John Cross will head the campaign at Wyatt, and Jimmy Glenn at Anniston. A team leader at Bertrand has not yet been chosen. Ronald Pilz will be in charge of absentee ballots.

The team leaders said they expect to recruit "block captains," who will be in charge of publicity and voter turnout for the block in which they live. Persons wishing to volunteer for this work are asked to contact the steering committee chairman or the team leader for their section of Charleston or the community in which they live.

Volunteers are especially needed, Drinkwater said, because of the short time remaining before the new bond issue election.

The following questions and answers on the proposed high school bond issue were prepared by the office of the R-1 District superintendent:

1. Q. What is the bond election on the 29th of March?

A. An election to vote $1.4 million to erect our new high school.

2. Q. Haven't we already voted on this issue?

A. Yes. The R-1 District voted on this issue on March 2, 1965, prior to reorganizing with Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson Bend.

3. Q. Why vote again on the same issue?

A. Charles & Trauernicht, bonding attorneys, have ruled that the bonds voted on March 2, 1965, are not valid because of a reorganization after the school bond election but prior to selling the bonds.

4. Q. Is the issue the same in this election as in the 1965 election?

A. Yes. Because of a legal technicality, the bonds must be reissued in order to print new bonds and destroy the old bonds.

5. Q. Is it true that the bond issue last March before reorganizing was to keep voters in Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson Bend from voting on the bond issue?

A. NO. Reorganizing elections are called by the County Board of Education. The R-1 Board could not establish the date for such an election. The R-1 District could have been included in a reorganization any time after the 15th of October, 1964 (one year after the last reorganization, October 15, 1963, with Anniston and Fox) and so could Bertrand, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend. In fact, it would have been to the advantage of the District to have reorganized prior to the annual school election so that all the merged districts would vote the same tax rate. Because the election was conducted after the annual school election, each district was responsible only for the levy it voted at the annual school election, plus the debt service obligation of the newly formed district. As a result, two of the four former districts have tax levies lower than the other two for the school year. A reorganization plan must be submitted to the State Department of Education for approval before submitting it to the voters. After the State Department approves the plan, the County Board must call an election within sixty (60) days. The plan submitted by our County Board was approved by the State on February 5, 1965. There was not ample time between approval by the State and the annual school election to vote a reorganization, elect new board members, and call the annual school election. Had this attempt been made, we would have found ourselves without a school board to call the annual school election and give the proper fifteen days' notice concerning the annual school election. The board members and administration of the R-1 District were pleased that the time of the elections worked out in the manner in which they did. We felt that the most important election at the time was the bond issue and that we needed a large turnout to pass it. The chances of getting a large turnout were best at the first election. However, no attempt was made to keep anyone from voting on the issue.

6. Q. What happens if the issue fails?

A. It must be resubmitted to the voters again within 15 to 20 days. However, we have confidence in the people and feel sure they want to provide the best education possible for our youngsters and that this confidence will be rewarded by a favorable vote on the 29th of March.

When I Was A Boy

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes.

(Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

B.F. "Pappy" Blanton

December 26, 1919

When I was a boy the chief products of Central Missouri were tobacco and hemp of which great crops were raised. The counties raising the most tobacco at that time were Boone, Randolph, Howard, and Callaway, and of these counties probably Chariton raised the most of any other county, though the product of each of those counties ran into the millions of pounds. Howard and Chariton also raised immense crops of hemp, but not near so much as Saline, Lafayette and Jackson counties. Campaign Opened to Pass School Bonds

CHARLESTON -- A citizens' committee which last year directed the drive to pass the high school bond issue has been reactivated, according to Chairman Buck Drinkwater.

The committee was called back into service last week after a St. Louis bonding attorney ruled the March, 1965, bond issue unsaleable. The issue will be submitted to the voters at a special R-1 school election scheduled for March 29.

Chairman of the steering committee will be Art Wallhausen Jr.

Team leaders are: Charleston Northwest, Marion Waggener; Northeast, William McNeary; Southwest, Mrs. Marshall Curran; and Southeast, William G. Knight. John Cross will head the campaign at Wyatt, and Jimmy Clegg at Anniston. A team leader at Bertrand has not yet been chosen. Ronald Pliz will be in charge of absentee ballots.

The team leaders said they expect to recruit "block captains," who will be in charge of publicity and voter turnout for the block in which they live. Persons wishing to volunteer for this work are asked to contact the steering committee chairman or the team leader for their section of Charleston or the community in which they live.

Volunteers are especially needed, Drinkwater said, because of the short time remaining before the new bond issue election.

The following questions and answers on the proposed high school bond issue were prepared by the office of the R-1 District superintendent:

1. Q. What is the bond election on the 29th of March?
- A. An election to vote $1.4 million to erect our new high school.
2. Q. Haven't we already voted on this issue?
- A. Yes. The R-1 District voted on this issue on March 2, 1965, prior to reorganizing with Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson Bend.
3. Q. Why vote again on the same issue?
- A. Charles & Trauernicht, bonding attorneys, have ruled that the bonds voted on March 2, 1965, are not valid because of a reorganization after the school bond election but prior to selling the bonds.
4. Q. Is the issue the same in this election as in the 1965 election?
- A. Yes. Because of a legal technicality, the bonds must be revoked in order to print new bonds and destroy the old bonds.
5. Q. Is it true that the main reason for voting on the bond issue last March before reorganizing was to keep voters in Bertrand, Texas Bend, and Thompson Bend from voting on the bond issue?
- A. NO. Reorganizing elections are called by the County Board of Education. The R-1 Board could not establish the date for such an election. The R-1 District could have been included in a reorganization any time after the 15th of October, 1964 (one year after the last reorganization, October 15, 1963, with Anniston and Fox) and so could Bertrand, Texas Bend and Thompson Bend. In fact, it would have been to the advantage of the District to have reorganized prior to the annual school election so that all the merged districts would vote the same tax rate. Because the election was conducted after the annual school election, each district was responsible only for the levy it voted at the annual school election, plus the debt service obligation of the newly formed district. As a result, two of the four former districts have tax levies lower than the other two for the school year. A reorganization plan must be submitted to the State Department of Education for approval before submitting it to the voters. After the State Department approves the plan, the County Board must call an election within sixty (60) days. The plan submitted by our County Board was approved by the State on February 5, 1965. There was not ample time between approval by the State and the annual school election to vote a reorganization, elect new board members, and call the annual school election. Had this attempt been made, we would have found ourselves without a school board to call the annual school election and give the proper fifteen days' notice concerning the annual school election. The board members and administration of the R-1 District were pleased that the time of the elections worked out in the manner in which they did. We felt that the most important election at the time was the bond issue and that we needed a large turnout to pass it. The chances of getting a large turnout were best at the first election. However, no attempt was made to keep anyone from voting on the issue.

6. Q. What happens if the issue fails?
- A. It must be resubmitted to the voters again within 15 to 20 days. However, we have confidence in the people and feel sure they want to provide the best education possible for our youngsters and that this confidence will be rewarded by a favorable vote on the 29th of March.

Three Aldermen To Be Elected

BLOOMFIELD -- The general city election will be held April 5, for the election of three aldermen.

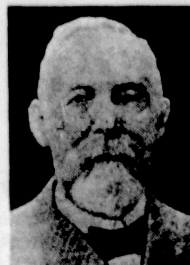

Candidates who have filed are Delbert Underwood for Ward No. 1 (north ward); Melvin Williams for ward no. 2, and Bob Harris to fill an unexpired term in ward no. 2 (south ward). The candidates are incumbents. The polling places will be at the city hall for the north ward and the office of the Stoddard county and Ex-Officio Collector in the county court house, for the south ward.

When I Was A Boy

B.F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

December 26, 1919

When I was a boy the chief products of Central Missouri were tobacco and hemp of which great crops were raised. The counties raising the most tobacco at that time were Boone, Randolph, Howard, and Callaway, and of these counties probably Chariton raised the most of any other county, though the product of each of those counties ran into the millions of pounds. Howard and Chariton also raised immense crops of hemp, but not near so much as Saline, Lafayette and Jackson counties. Now there is little or no hemp raised in the state that I know of and the counties in which so much tobacco was raised then now raise but comparably little of the weed. Wheat, corn and stock have taken their place.

When I was a boy there were but few diseases, besides chills, and fever, known in our community. Such a thing as hay fever was unknown, and we had never even heard of asthma, tonsils, appendicitis and many other modern diseases. Of course we had stone bruises on our heel, bad colds and sometimes for a change we had a touch of ear ache, just enough to keep us from going to school. Men wore jeans breeches, (we had not learned to call them pants,) with home made galluses, now known as suspenders, while the women wore linsey dresses made at home, and they looked mighty nice, too, when woven with stripes or made up. Yes, sir, the girls were mighty pretty, too, and good.

When I was a boy we had some thrilling experiences that is entirely unknown to the present crop of boys, and that was breaking steer calves to work under the yoke. Most any boy could make a yoke out of soft buckeye wood and bows to go around the steer's neck, and the fun began as soon as you cornered the calves and had them yoked together. They would run and plunge, fall down and bellow, but all you had to do was to hold on to them, even if they dragged you all over the lot, which was often the case, and occasionally you had lost most of your clothes by the time your calves were gentle and obedient, but it was exciting sport for country boys.

When I was a boy school teachers were few and far between and mighty little account as teachers, and all the teachers I ever knew when I was a kid were men and I doubt if any of them could pass muster in the eighth grade of any of our country schools. There was no public or free schools then, and the teacher would go through the neighborhood getting so many children pledged for a 3 months school. If he got enough to make him $20 a month he would teach the children. Some teachers boarded around with the families who had children in his school, getting his board for nothing. At that time people did not think women knew enough to teach. How things have changed! Now you can hardly hire a teacher for $20 a week and 90 per cent of all teachers are women and they are good ones, too.

When I was a boy I was pretty full of fun, and as one teacher said, devilment, because I was often the cause of the boys getting a whipping by making them laugh or talk during school time. I was often whipped for this but as it never hurt much I soon got over the whippings and went at it again. One teacher got tired of talking and whipping so one day he called me up and sent out for a long hazel switch. That tickled me for I knew he could not hurt with that, but I did not know what was in the teacher's mind, but soon found out when he made me stand in the middle of the floor and chew the end of the switch. I chewed off about a foot of the hazel and then just quit. That was the worst punishment I ever had, except once.

Eye Injuries Need Speedy Attention

JEFFERSON CITY -- "When eye injuries occur, especially to children, seek medical help immediately," cautioned Dr. L. M. Garner, acting director of the Missouri division of health. He explained that quick action by a doctor is the best way of preventing further trouble and complications.

Young children are especially likely to suffer serious or permanent damage following injury. A minor injury could result in vision impairment or blindness. Some of the common causes are fireworks, BB guns, toy arrows and darts, and the child's playthings. Care in the selection of children's toys will help reduce the chances for eye injuries. However, if they do happen, call your doctor immediately.

"Whether the victim is an adult or a child, the same general procedures apply in handling eye accidents. Do not attempt to remove anything from the injured eye, particularly if the skin around it has been cut or torn," he said. In cases of burns to the eye, or areas close to it, get the quickest medical help possible. Home treatment is not advised, Dr. Garner said.

Acids and alkalis present a slightly different problem. Acids do most of their damage within the first few minutes. Alkalis, such as household ammonia, lye or lime, continually and rapidly eat into flesh parts, doing their damage as long as they are present. Flushing with large quantities of water by pouring or squeezing it from a cloth directly onto the eye will aid in reducing their activities. Always contact a doctor as soon as possible.

Prolonged exposure to the sun, or careless use of a sunlamp, may produce eye injury. Within six to ten hours the eyes may begin to smart. Later pain and swelling occur. A cool towel over the eyes may give relief until seen by a physician.

Dr. Garner concluded by saying, "At least half of all cases of blindness in one eye are the result of accidents. The chances of serious damage or permanent blindness can be reduced by prompt medical attention. When injuries occur, consult your physician immediately."

Two Awards Presented to Captain Reed

JEFFERSON CITY -- Capt. John H. Reed, assistant operations and training officer, military support to civil defense section of the adjutant general's office ranked first in two one-week courses at the civil defense staff college, Battle Creek, Mich., according to Major Gen. L. B. Adams, Jr., adjutant general of Missouri.

The courses were conducted from Feb. 27 through March 11 and included officers from 30 states.

Captain Reed's outstanding performance was while taking courses in civil defense management and civil defense planning and operations.

The OGD staff college director, Richard C. Rasmussen, presented two awards to Captain Reed.

"All Missourians, and particularly the Missouri National Guard can be proud that Captain Reed placed first in this elite company," the general said. Many of the officers in attendance have been in the civil defense planning and operations business much longer than Captain Reed.

Captain Reed, formerly of Sikeston, graduated from Southeast Missouri State college at Cape Girardeau and now lives in Jefferson City with his wife, Weymuth, and daughter, Kathy.

$1 School Levy Proposed at Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- The Bloomfield R-14 board of education decided that a proposal to levy $1 on the $100 assessed valuation be submitted to the qualified voters of the school district April 5.

Thirty-five cents of the $1 is to be applied to the teachers fund, 40¢ of the $1 is to be applied to the incidental fund and 25¢ of the $1 is to be applied to the building fund. This in addition to the $1.25 rate that may be levied by the board without voter approval and the 65¢ that has been established by the board for the purpose of paying bonded indebtedness. This makes a total of $2.90 which is the same tax levy the district had last year.

The board of education established the deadline for filing for school director at 5 p.m. March 31.

The school election will be held April 5 starting at 6 a.m. until 7 p.m. in the ticket lobby of the gymnasium.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

Women's Medical News Service
HYPNOSIS USEFUL
MEDICAL TOOL

Hypnosis is being used by an estimated 10,000 American doctors and dentists as an aid to therapy, according to a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA).

Hypnosis aids the healing process, reports Dr. Albert M. Betcher, associate clinical professor of anesthesiology at New York's Albert Einstein College of Medicine, reducing "post-operative complications." Dr. Betcher has used hypnosis in the treatment of children since 1959; he now hypnotizes about 24 patients five years of age and up each month in preparation for removal of tonsils and appendixes, among other conditions. The doctor finds that hypnosis reduces the amount of chemical anesthesia used in operations.

Other physicians and dentists explained that they found hypnosis effective as a pain killer and as a way of reducing anxiety and fear. When pregnant women are hypnotized before delivery, less anesthesia is used during the birth process, increasing the safety for both mother and baby.

Both the American Medical Association and the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis support the use of hypnosis as a medical tool. They caution, however, that it should be taught by professionals to professionals, and should not be used as entertainment. Only doctors or dentists can decide when hypnosis is suitable.

PREVENT CHILD ABUSE
BY FAMILY PLANNING
Unthinkable though it is to most people, thousands of young children in the U.S. are physically abused by their parents, sometimes so seriously that the children are maimed for life or die. Others are starved or neglected so that they fall prey to serious diseases. Why does this happen?

In many cases because the children are unwanted, reports Michigan physician Ralph Ten Have in Michigan Medicine. They have the ill-luck to be born into families where there is emotional illness or mental defect.

Dr. Ten Have suggests that one way to prevent child abuse and neglect is through family planning. By helping to delay pregnancy and childbirth for couples who have shown that they are unwilling and ill-prepared psychologically for the responsibilities of parenthood, he maintains, it may be possible to reduce the incidence of this appalling problem. "It is certainly our professional responsibility," he writes, "to provide guidance and instruction in family planning to families with these mental and emotional problems."

	APPROVED LOCATION

PROGRESS BEING MADE on Missouri's 1,119-mile designated share of the interstate highway system is shown on this map prepared by the Missouri state highway department.

More Than Half of Interstate Finished

JEFFERSON CITY -- Slightly more than half of Missouri's 1,119-mile designated share of the interstate highway system now is completed and open to traffic, according to the Missouri state highway department. Missouri has 567 miles -- or about 51 per cent -- of its proposed interstate system routes finished and in use; 40 miles are under construction and expected to be open to traffic by the end of this year; and another 46 miles are under construction but not scheduled for completion until after this year.

In addition, Missouri has 152 miles of dual lane, divided highways in use on interstate route locations, but additional work will be required to bring this mileage up to full interstate standards. The work will include construction of traffic interchanges, overpasses and underpasses, surfacing of shoulders, installation of new signs and other refinements. While substantial progress has been made on all of Missouri's interstate system highways, the two most spectacular accomplishments so far have been (1) The virtual completion of Interstate Route 70 to full standards across the state from downtown St. Louis to downtown Kansas City, and (2) The completion of Interstate Route 44 as a dual lane, divided highway from the St. Louis area southwest to the Missouri-Oklahoma state line. Those two highways carry the largest traffic volumes of any in Missouri. Missouri ranks near the top among all the states in the nation in progress being made on the interstate system.

The nationwide interstate system will total 41,000 miles of freeways. Construction on the network was started in 1956, with completion scheduled in 1972. However, doubts now are arising about finishing the system on schedule because of insufficient federal aid highway funds. Interstate system routes are constructed with 90 per cent federal funds and 10 per cent state funds.

Long Will Investigate U.S. Delays

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), chairman of the senate subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure, has announced he is launching a questionnaire to "find out why American citizens often encounter almost endless delay when dealing with many federal agencies." Senator Long said that "my Senate investigations have already uncovered cases in which administrative agencies consume more time than they should. Such delay may have harmful effects on the nation's economy as well as on individual citizens. Once we find out the 'whys' of delay, then we will be in a position to draft legislation to cut down on the delay."

One Arrest For Entry

HAYTI -- A Tennessee man has been identified as one of two men who forced entry into a warehouse Thursday night near Hayti while the owner was hidden inside.

John Leroy Dinger, 23, Tip-tonville, Tenn., was charged with breaking and entering after his arrest about 8:30 p.m. by Trooper Roy Jones near Steele. Dinger is held in the Pemiscot county jail at Caruthersville.

Edward Harrison, owner of the warehouse, and a friend were hiding in the building Thursday night after merchandise was found missing recently. Harrison was armed with a shotgun.

Harrison said two men entered the building and kept advancing even after he ordered them to halt. Harrison fired a blast into the floor and the men fled. He fired two more shots as they drove off in a red and white truck.

The suspect was arrested later. Authorities are searching for another man.

Episcopal Diocese Will Discuss Changes

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- The Rt. Rev. George L. Cadigan, Episcopal bishop of Missouri, has called a special diocesan convention here March 26 to consider amendments to the diocesan constitution.

Two conventions are required to amend the constitution. Approval of the amendments by the second convention would clear the way for final action at the regular 1966 conference here April 22-23.

The eight-member standing committee, which reports directly to the bishop on diocesan activities, would be enlarged to 12 members under the reorganization plan. Other facets of the diocesan structure would be streamlined and some of the present commissions and committees would be consolidated or eliminated.

Big Changes Are Ahead For American Medicine

EDITOR'S NOTE -- Behind the immediate problem of matching limited manpower to vastly expanding programs, big changes are ahead for American medicine. This final article of a series of five looks at medical care of the future.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK AP -- Medicine has chalked up tremendous successes in postponing death, relieving pain, in patching people up.

And it is only starting to realize its full potential.

Some elements in your future health care are suggested by doctors and other specialists, conservative or liberal in their viewpoints.

One major emphasis, most agree, will be upon preventing disabilities and illnesses, including cancer, heart attacks, and even the galloping plague of the common cold.

The emphasis will be upon keeping you well and vigorous, through total, comprehensive care. You may, each year, have a checkup involving 30 or more tests, most of them simple, with automated equipment and a computer analyzing results initially for your doctor to consider, suggests Dr. C. C. Cutting of the Permanente Medical Group in Oakland, Calif.

Within five years, possibly, ailing human hearts may be removed and replaced with small, battery-operated mechanical hearts.

Ultimate success is expected in the dream of becoming able to borrow vital organs -- kidneys, hearts, glands, limbs -- from the dead and transplanting them into the living. Death often knocks prematurely because one organ fails in a person who otherwise is 90 per cent healthy.

Some scientists confidently expect we shall learn how to alter human heredity, one's genes, to prevent inheritable defects, as well as to correct those that do occur. And they suggest we'd best begin now to think about safeguards to assure that genetic "tampering" is done wisely and with constructive interests only.

Average life spans may increase appreciably. It is more likely that debilitating, degenerative diseases of aging will be postponed longer.

Some nagging moral or ethical questions may become more acute. Just how long should heroic and expensive efforts and medications be continued to keep breath in aged, helpless persons who may be only technically alive? Who might decide whether or when to stop?

Is too much effort, some physicians wonder, being spent on adding a few years to adult life, as against preserving children and younger adults from grave health threats, or overcoming their physical or emotional handicaps?

And where is the money coming from for all the proposed programs for expanded health care, for training new health professionals, for improving hospitals, and paying salaries commensurate with those in other occupations?

Some say we cannot afford it all, or at least in a rush. Others believe we can, through insurance systems and tax funds, in a generally prosperous nation that ought to have good health for its citizens as one of its prime goals.

How shall it be done without diluting quality of medical care, or interference with the physician's best judgment for his patient?

The clear trend, from these interviews, is toward better, more effective, more widespread medical care.

In the planning stage now -- and a matter of some controversy -- is establishment of a national network of regional centers for heart disease, cancer and strokes. It is intended to bring the best skills in diagnosis and treatment of these diseases to every physician and patient, region by region, to overcome the lag between discovery and application, to spur research, to train more health personnel and specialists.

Change is moving through hospitals. They are modernizing in more attractive and efficient design, and in adopting labor-saving techniques.

Automation in hospital laboratories is becoming well advanced; computers are entering to reduce paper work, keep records, to speed the flow of information, even to aid in more careful administration of drugs to patients. More supplies are disposable, used but once, and there are more efficient methods of preparing and serving meals.

Nursing homes, many of them understaffed and providing only minimal care, are expected to undergo vast improvement.

Physicians will have more assistance in keeping abreast of the flow of advancing medical knowledge -- while keeping the responsibility to determine its value for their patients.

The American Medical Association, for example, is considering a national plan for continuing medical education. It is launching a pilot study soon, in Utah, partly to measure the individual postgraduate educational needs among doctors.

The harried medical student will find his courses changing and, some medical deans predict, being broadened into the life problems of his future patients.

Medical schools "must take on responsibility for segments of the population in their communities, for total care and preventive care," said Dr. Robert Ebert, Harvard Medical School dean.

Tamping tobacco into his pipe, Dean Ebert said: "We must have an eye and feeling for what the public needs, for that is the purpose of medicine."

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"... And that ends the home movies for tonight, folks -- except for the commercial."

Two Poverty War Plans Approved

CHARLESTON -- Delta Area Economic Opportunity corporation directors Monday night approved two Mississippi county war on poverty programs, and gave approval to a package of summer Head Start programs for 17 school districts and two private corporations.

The two Mississippi County programs are a summer "youth development center" for the East Prairie R-2 School District and a "family service center" sponsored by Missco Improvement, Inc., a private non-profit corporation with headquarters in Charleston.

Included in the R-2 program is a remedial reading program for children in grades one through nine, and a communication skills program (writing, listening, and speaking) for the same age groups.

Total estimated cost of the program is $47,123, of which $39,477 will be a federal grant. The remaining $7,646 will be a contribution of the school district, primarily an "in kind" payment based on rental of the school buildings.

If approved by the regional Office of Economic Opportunity in Kansas City, the program would employ 16 teachers, a supervisor of instruction, center director, three secretaries, a nurse, four bus drivers-custodians, and three teacher-aides. The center will serve an estimated 400 to 425 children.

The Missco proposal of a family service center, to be located in the west end of Charleston, includes a project director, professional social worker, recreation director, eight non-professional aides, and a secretary.

Prime function of the center will be to refer residents of the target area to community services which are available to them, from other economic opportunity programs and from regular health, welfare, legal, educational, and employment agencies.

In addition, the center will provide recreation programs for families, an after-school study center for adults and children and a cultural enrichment program. Cost of this program will be $30,062, of which $27,328 will be a federal grant. Final approval of the program will be made by the Kansas City OEO.

School districts whose Head Start programs were approved by the board include: Charleston, East Prairie, Advance, Senath - Hornersville, Wardell, Oran, Lilbourn, Matthews, Clarkton, Richland, Bloomfield, Dexter, Gideon, New Madrid, Kelly, Morehouse, Bernie and Matthews. Private groups will sponsor Head Start in Portageville and Caruthersville.

If approved in Kansas City, the programs would provide training for three, four, and five-year-olds during the summer. Assistant DAEOC Director Bill Graves of Portageville reported on the first week's results of the Medicare Alert program sponsored jointly by the corporation and the Social Security Administration office in Cape Girardeau.

Graves said 206 Mississippi County residents had applied for Medicare benefits after being called upon by the Alert teams. Total number of applications received so far in the six-county DAEOC area is 1,335, Graves said.

10-Year Term Urged

KENNETT -- A sentence of 10 years to the Missouri Department of corrections was recommended for Paul Hickman, 25, of Kennett, following a jury trial on a charge of passing a forged check in circuit court.

The jury deliberated approximately an hour and a half before a verdict of guilty was returned. Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., who presided at the court proceedings, set Monday, March 28, for sentencing Hickman and requested a recommendation from Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker as to the punishment of the defendant.

The prosecuting attorney then recommended the maximum punishment of 10 years for the crime. He explained that Hickman was tried under the habitual criminal act of Missouri which is applicable where the defendant has a prior felony conviction.

Baker has announced that it is now the policy of his office to prosecute under the habitual criminal act in every case where the defendant has a prior felony conviction. "It will also be the policy of this office to seek and recommend more severe penalties than have been sought in the past," he declared. "The purpose of these new policies is to induce convicted felons to avoid committing such crimes in this county."

The prosecuting attorney commended the jury for their verdict by saying, "The verdict of the jury in the Hickman case will be of great help in enforcement of the check laws in this county. I am formulating a new policy regarding checks which will be announced soon. The purpose of law enforcement and criminal punishment is primarily to deter the previously convicted offenders and other persons and to prevent further criminal offense."

Contests at Caruthersville

CARUTHERSVILLE -- With the filing of Roy Smith for the city council post in ward four, a third race has developed for the April 5 election.

Smith is challenging Dee Barnes, who is seeking his seventh term on the council. Gilbert Hazel of the first ward and Leslie Knott of the third ward also filed for reelection.

Wyman Dillman, the senior member of the council, filed for another term early this year.

The other two races that have already developed are for chief of police and city collector. Chief H. Edwards is opposed by 22-year-old Ralph Sides. Collector Earl S. Bennett is seeking another term. Ernest Robertson also has filed for that post.

Mayor B. F. Rogers, is a candidate for a third term. The filing deadline for the election is Friday.

Smith, who lives at 109 West 18th Street, operates a Gulf Station. He is a longtime resident of the city.

Barnes, who is completing his 12th year on the council, operates a grocery store.

Big Changes Are Ahead For American Medicine

EDITOR'S NOTE -- Behind the immediate problem of matching limited manpower to vastly expanding programs, big changes are ahead for American medicine. This final article of a series of five looks at medical care of the future.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK AP -- Medicine has chalked up tremendous successes in postponing death, relieving pain, in patching people up.

And it is only starting to realize its full potential. Some elements in your future health care are suggested by doctors and other specialists, conservative or liberal in their viewpoints.

One major emphasis, most agree, will be upon preventing disabilities and illnesses, including cancer, heart attacks, and even the galloping plague of the common cold.

The emphasis will be upon keeping you well and vigorous, through total, comprehensive care. You may, each year, have a checkup involving 30 or more tests, most of them simple, with automated equipment and a computer analyzing results initially for your doctor to consider, suggests Dr. C. C. Cuting of the Permanente Medical Group in Oakland, Calif.

Within five years, possibly, ailing human hearts may be removed and replaced with small, battery-operated mechanical hearts.

Ultimate success is expected in the dream of becoming able to borrow vital organs -- kidneys, hearts, glands, limbs -- from the dead and transplanting them into the living. Death often comes prematurely because one organ fails in a person who otherwise is 90 per cent healthy.

Some scientists confidently expect we shall learn how to alter human heredity, one's genes, to prevent inheritable defects, as well as to correct those that do occur. And they suggest we'd best begin now to think about safeguards to assure that genetic "tampering" is done wisely and with constructive interests only.

Average life spans may increase appreciably. It is more likely that debilitating, degenerative diseases of aging will be postponed longer.

Some nagging moral or ethical questions may become more acute: Just how long should heroic and expensive efforts and medications be continued to keep breath in aged, helpless persons who may be only technically alive? Who might decide whether or when to stop?

Is too much effort, some physicians wonder, being spent on adding a few years to adult life, as against preserving children and younger adults from grave health threats, or overcoming their physical or emotional handicaps?

And where is the money coming from for all the proposed programs for expanded health care, for training new health professionals, for improving hospitals, and paying salaries commensurate with those in other occupations?

Some say we cannot afford it all, or at least in a rush. Others believe we can, through insurance systems and tax funds, in a generally prosperous nation that ought to have good health for its citizens as one of its prime goals.

How shall it be done without diluting quality of medical care, or interference with the physician's best judgment for his patient?

The clear trend, from these interviews, is toward better, more effective, more widespread medical care.

In the planning stage now -- and a matter of some controversy -- is establishment of a national network of regional centers for heart disease, cancer and strokes. It is intended to bring the best skills in diagnosis and treatment of these diseases to every physician and patient, region by region, to overcome the lag between discovery and application, to spur research, to train more health personnel and specialists.

Change is moving through hospitals. They are modernizing in more attractive and efficient design, and in adopting labor-saving techniques.

Automation in hospital laboratories is becoming well-advanced; computers are entering to reduce paper work, keep records, to speed the flow of information, even to aid in more careful administration of drugs to patients. More supplies are disposable, used but once, and there are more efficient methods of preparing and serving meals.

Nursing homes, many of them understaffed and providing only minimal care, are expected to undergo vast improvement.

Physicians will have more assistance in keeping abreast of the flow of advancing medical knowledge -- while keeping the responsibility to determine its value for their patients.

The American Medical Association, for example, is considering a national plan for continuing medical education. It is launching a pilot study soon, in Utah, partly to measure the individual postgraduate educational needs among doctors.

The hurried medical student will find his courses changing and, some medical deans predict, being broadened into the life problems of his future patients.

Medical schools "must take on responsibility for segments of the population in their communities, for total care and preventive care," said Dr. Robert Ebert, Harvard Medical School dean.

Tamping tobacco into his pipe, Dean Ebert said: "We must have an eye and feeling for what the public needs, for that is the purpose of medicine."

Two Poverty War Plans Approved

CHARLESTON -- Delta Area Economic Opportunity corporation directors Monday night approved two Mississippi county war on poverty programs, and gave approval to a package of summer Head Start programs for 17 school districts and two private corporations.

The two Mississippi County programs are a summer "youth development center" for the East Prairie R-2 School District and a "family service center" sponsored by Missco Improvement, Inc., a private non-profit corporation with headquarters in Charleston.

Included in the R-2 program is a remedial reading program for children in grades one through nine, and a communication skills program (writing, listening, and speaking) for the same age groups.

Total estimated cost of the program is $47,123, of which $39,477 will be a federal grant. The remaining $7,646 will be a contribution of the school district, primarily an "in kind" payment based on rental of the school buildings.

If approved by the regional Office of Economic Opportunity in Kansas City, the program would employ 16 teachers, a supervisor of instruction, center director, three secretaries, a nurse, four bus drivers-custodians, and three teacher-aides. The center will serve an estimated 400 to 425 children.

The Missco proposal of a family service center, to be located in the west end of Charleston, includes a project director, professional social worker, recreation director, eight non-professional aides, and a secretary.

Contests at Caruthersville

CARUTHERSVILLE -- With the filing of Roy Smith for the city council post in ward four, a third race has developed for the April 5 election.

Smith is challenging Dee Barnes, who is seeking his seventh term on the council. Gilbert Hazel of the first ward and Leslie Knott of the third ward also filed for reelection.

Wyman Dillman, the senior member of the council, filed for another term early this year.

The other two races that have already developed are for chief of police and city collector. Chief H. Edwards is opposed by 22-year-old Ralph Sides. Collector Earl S. Bennett is seeking another term. Ernest Robertson also has filed for that post.

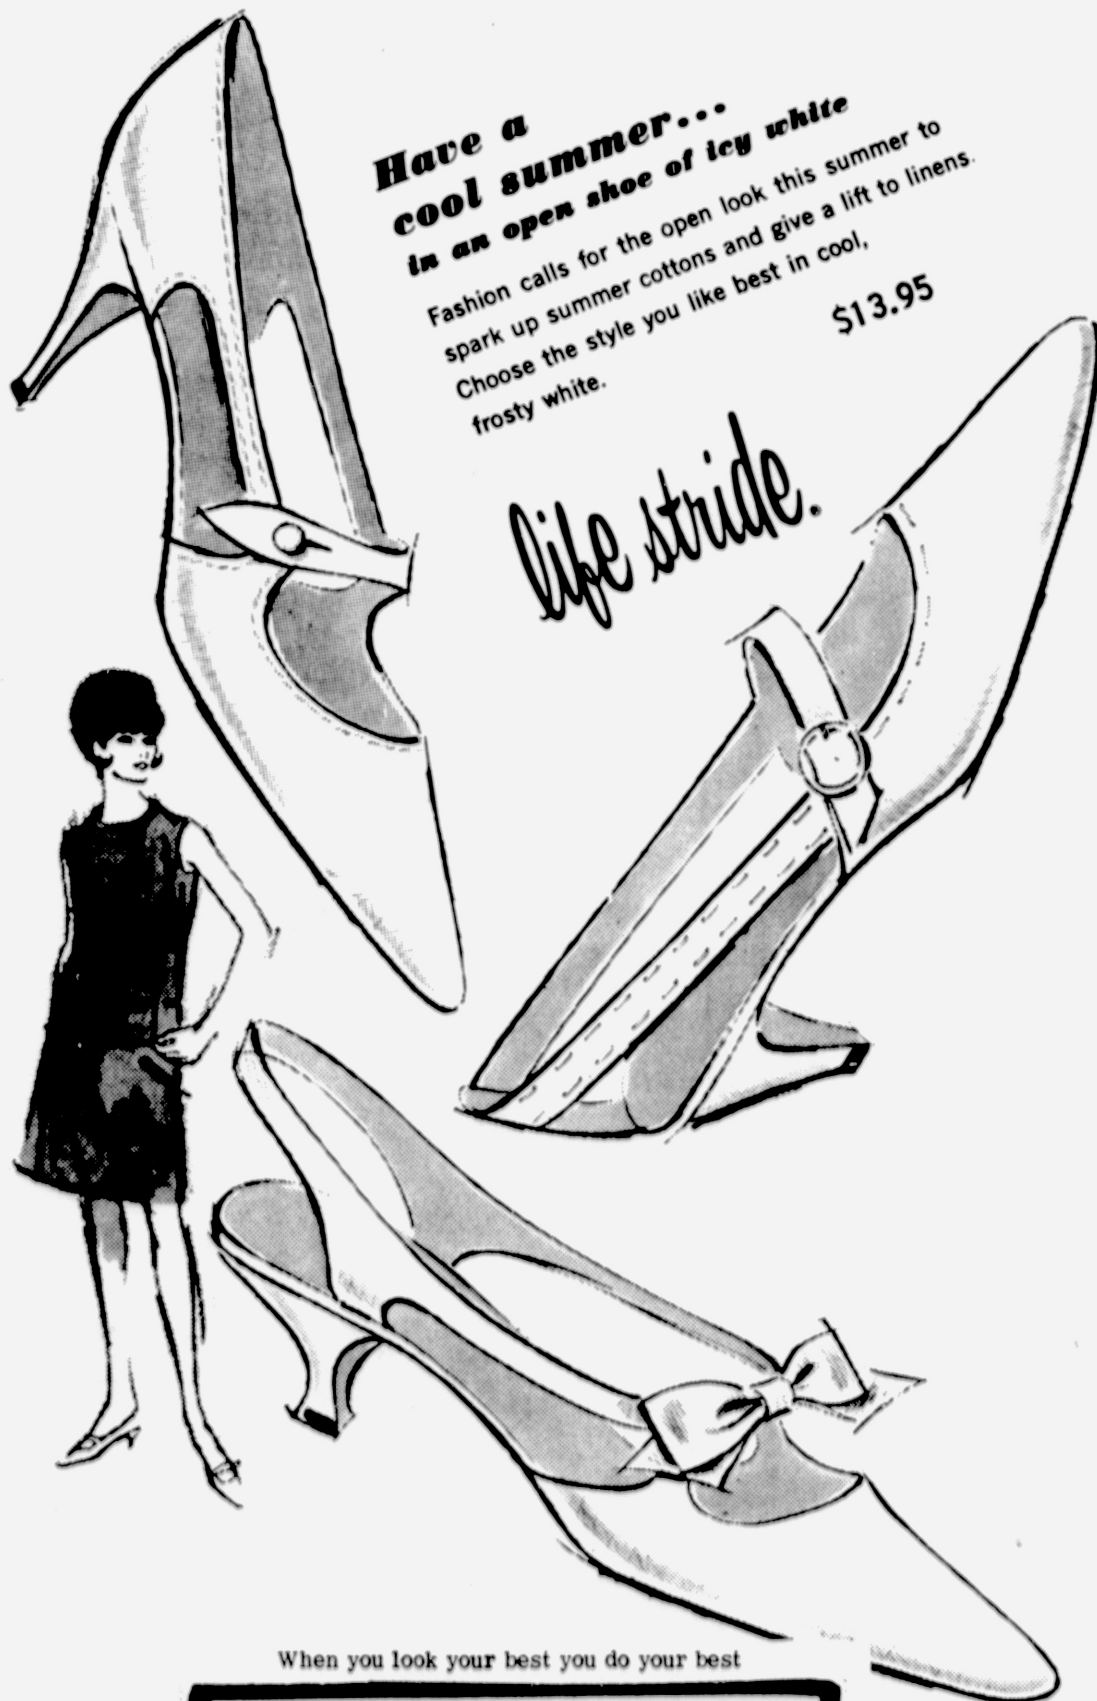

Mayor B. F. Rogers is a candidate for a third term. The filing deadline for the election is Friday.

Smith, who lives at 109 West 18th Street, operates a Gulf Station. He is a longtime resident of the city.

Barnes, who is completing his 12th year on the council, operates a grocery store.

Gemini 8 Short Flight Answer Comes on Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An answer to the shortened flight of Gemini 8 came during the weekend.

Space agency officials said a short circuit probably caused a small maneuvering rocket to run wild, sending Gemini 8 and its two astronauts into a harrowing spin.

The officials said a 25-pound thruster suddenly went full blast when the spacecraft was linked up with the Agena rocket. The astronauts were forced to undock, shut off the maneuvering system and use a secondary system normally used for the critical re-entry process.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott landed safely in the Pacific. They arrived back in Cape Kennedy Saturday.

The weekend brought word of another puzzler.

Large, mysterious structures have been spotted in the countryside near Moscow and Leningrad. Indications are the Soviet Union is installing a defense system against intercontinental missiles.

Other international developments over the weekend:

A new two-year agreement was signed Saturday between the United States and the Soviet Union, continuing the U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange program at about the same level as in the past.

A U.S. Navy task force began operations off Palomares Beach, Spain, to nudge a 20-megaton bomb, located 2,500 feet down in the Mediterranean, into a more favorable place for recovery.

At home, citizens got the word they will pay more for five special postal services, starting Saturday. These include money order, registry, C.O.D., insurance and certified mail services.

Informed guesses in Washington were that taxpayers this year may find their income tax boosted by about $5 for every $100 they now pay.

President Johnson sent Congress a plan to double spending on water research in the next five years. This would include studying such ideas as watering Southern California by towing in arctic icebergs.

In Detroit, Mayor Jerome Cavanagh confirmed an open secret that he would battle G. Mennen Williams for the Democratic nomination for a U.S. Senate seat from Michigan.

And the swallows of San Juan Capistrano, Calif., true to form, produced their annual puzzler. Thousands of the birds flew into nests on the walls of the old mission at San Juan Capistrano Saturday just as they have on all but a few St. Joseph's Days since 1776. But just how they arrive on the same day remains a mystery.

have engaged in political activities, it having been pointed out that exempt organizations may not engage in any political action on behalf of any candidate for public office. We pointed out, of course, that the National Right To Work Committee has scrupulously avoided any such activity, and that its functions have been devoted exclusively to furthering the right to work principle. If any staff employees had engaged in political activity on their own as private citizens, we pointed out, such activity had no connection with or sanction of the National Right To Work Committee. Notwithstanding these assurances the investigators proceeded to examine all of our expenditures, including those for travel, telephone, mailing and printing, in an effort to discover some expenditure related to political activities. As a matter of curiosity we inquired of the investigator whether similar audits were being made of other exempt organizations such as the AFL-CIO and the Americans For Democratic Action, who are subject to the same statutory restrictions on political activities, but received no direct response.

We feel that it is more than a coincidence that this investigation was undertaken concurrent with the National Right To Work Committee's successful efforts to arouse public opposition to the Administration's recommendation to repeal Section 14(b). We are deeply concerned with the implications of the possible use of Internal Revenue Service as an instrument to suppress opposition to Administration programs and to harass and intimidate those who disagree with what the Administration and the chiefs of organized labor decide is best for the country.

We deeply appreciate your interest in this matter, and we will try to keep you informed of whatever further action may develop.

Very truly yours,
Reed Larson

Young women floundering in the bewildering state of adolescence might take a tip from actress-singer Paula Wayne. After seven long years of movie voice dubbing, Broadway chorus lines and road shows, she is clicking in her chosen profession.

While barefooting her way around a floor covered with rehearsal scores, she gave the key to her growing success—"I'm a salesman. The product is me."

She explained her theory meant finding the best hairdo, make-up and fashions to project the image she wants. Most young women will not star opposite Sammy Davis in "Golden Boy," or take an act to Las Vegas or Miami Beach, but the self-analysis and hard work of getting a "personal look and philosophy" is within their grasp, she feels.

Miss Wayne, who tells some she is old at 27, says she is just beginning to make the most of her physical attributes and drawbacks. For example, she laughingly explains that she discovered in "Golden Boy" that she is built like a girl and she dresses accordingly. She plans to wear long skirts in her act to compensate for her short legs. She also discovered sequin tops and velvet tops go well with her figure.

Being a blonde and brown-eyed she makes the most of vibrant colors and finds that white or certain shades of yellow make her look washed out in the spotlight. When selecting day-to-day clothing, teenagers should consider what the lighting will be where they are and what certain colors do for their complexions.

Miss Wayne feels she uses less make-up, even on stage, than most actresses and says she gives her face a rest from make-up during the day. She thoroughly removes make-up with soap and water and doesn't use a cream. At night she smooths on a baby oil.

"I'm bad about dieting," she grimaces, but keeps her trim size 10 by chasing her daughter, 8, and son, 6. She likes ice skating and horse-back riding and even captained Sardi's softball team last summer. However, if she really feels the need for exercise she turns to dancing, an enjoyable way to loosen up.

Tree Limb Causes Death

ZALMA -- A Zalma area man who was injured Wednesday in a freak logging accident died Friday at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff of internal injuries.

Hoyle Turner, 34, a farmer who lived two miles northeast of Zalma, was working about 3 p.m. Wednesday near his home with a cousin, Bobby Turner, 35, who lives near Gipsy.

The men felled a tree and were standing beside it when a large limb plunged down on top of them. The limb apparently had broken off the main trunk and lodged momentarily in another tree.

Both men were knocked unconscious, with Hoyle taking the main force of the blow. Bobby Turner awakened some time

Canutt Directs Camels

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Yakma Canutt, who has dealt with just about every kind of movie action, has returned from Egypt where he met a new challenge: directing hundreds of battle-charging camels.

Still vigorous at 70, Canutt has long been one of Hollywood's most colorful figures. A rodeo champion for five years, he came a cowboy star in silent films, later won fame as the screen's most fearless stunt man.

He is the chap who performed the memorable feat in "Stage Coach," transferring from an Indian pony to the rampaging team of horses, falling between them and letting the coach pass over his body. Then he doubled for John Wayne, leaping from the coach onto the horses and finally controlling the runaway.

Later he found Hoyle lying nearby with the huge limb on top of him.

Neighbors assisted in bringing Turner out of the timber to a waiting ambulance.

ways.

When Yak's bones began to object to such rigors, he turned to the direction of action scenes in film epics. His most notable achievement was the chariot race in "Ben-Hur." He also staged a gorilla hunt for "Mogambo," battles in "Helen of Troy" and "Fall of the Roman Empire," jousts in "Ivanhoe" and "El Cid," and comedy stunts in "Cat Ballou."

In Egypt he directed four large battles for "Khartoum," starring Charlton Heston and Laurence Olivier.

Despite his difficulties, Canutt managed to stage the desert battles with his usual dispatch. In the climactic massacre of Khartoum he used 5,000 foot soldiers, 750 camel riders and hundreds of horsemen.

Canutt has done just about everything in movie action, but "Khartoum" was his first experience with masses of camels. "They told me you can't throw a camel without hurting its legs," he said. "I didn't believe that. I found you could pad them with packs on their backs and it was like falling on a mattress. We got some great shots, and we never lost a camel."

Dear Senator Dirksen:

We are pleased to respond to your inquiry regarding an investigation being conducted by the Internal Revenue Service as to the tax exemption status of the National Right To Work Committee. We appreciate your interest in this matter inasmuch as it may be related to the recently concluded effort to prevent repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The National Right To Work Committee as a non-profit corporation organized solely for the purpose of promoting the principle of voluntary unionism has previously received a Treasury Department ruling that it qualifies for tax exemption under Section 501(c)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code. As a result, the money received by the Committee as dues and contributions from its members is not subject to federal income tax. If the Internal Revenue Service now challenges this exemption, it will undoubtedly demand that the Committee pay federal income tax. Should this occur, it would virtually tax the Committee out of existence.

We first learned that the Internal Revenue Service was questioning the Committee's tax exemption status in November 1965 shortly after the proposed repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act was blocked in the Senate. At that time an Internal Revenue investigator came to our office and demanded access to our accounts and records, including the minutes of the meetings of our Board of Directors and our executive committee. We made available to the investigator all the information he requested. Following this initial investigation we learned that Internal Revenue Service investigators were contacting firms which supply us with services, such as the firm which handles our printing, for the purpose of checking their records as to the amounts billed to the National Right To Work Committee and the type of service provided.

About two weeks ago, concurrent with the latest successful effort to block repeal of Section 14(b), two Internal Revenue Service investigators appeared at our office to make a further examination of our accounts and records. In discussing the scope of the investigation with the investigators we learned that they were interested in determining whether any staff employee may

Mr. Blanton

Attached is a copy of a letter to Senator Everett Dirksen from Reed Larson regarding the Internal Revenue Service investigation as to the tax exemption status of the National Right To Work Committee.

The National Committee feels that it is more than a coincidence that this investigation was undertaken concurrent with our successful efforts to arouse public opposition to the Administration's recommended repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act. The Senator is interested in the matter as it relates to his successful effort on the Senate floor to prevent repeal of 14(b).

from ages 18 and over. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

have engaged in political activities, it having been pointed out that exempt organizations may not engage in any political action on behalf of any candidate for public office. We pointed out, of course, that the National Right To Work Committee has scrupulously avoided any such activity, and that its functions have been devoted exclusively to furthering the right to work principle. If any staff employees had engaged in political activity on their own as private citizens, we pointed out, such activity had no connection with or sanction of the National Right To Work Committee. Notwithstanding these assurances the investigators proceeded to examine all of our expenditures, including those for travel, telephone, mailing and printing, in an effort to discover some expenditure related to political activities. As a matter of curiosity we inquired of the investigator whether similar audits were being made of other exempt organizations such as the AFL-CIO and the Americans For Democratic Action, who are subject to the same statutory restrictions on political activities, but received no direct response.

We feel that it is more than a coincidence that this investigation was undertaken concurrent with the National Right To Work Committee's successful efforts to arouse public opposition to the Administration's recommendation to repeal Section 14(b). We are deeply concerned with the implications of the possible use of Internal Revenue Service as an instrument to suppress opposition to Administration programs and to harass and intimidate those who disagree with what the Administration and the chiefs of organized labor decide is best for the country.

We deeply appreciate your interest in this matter, and we will try to keep you informed of whatever further action may develop.

Very truly yours,
Reed Larson

Shares Success Secrets

by Helen Hennessy

Women's Editor

Young women floundering in the bewildering state of adolescence might take a tip from actress-singer Paula Wayne. After seven long years of movie voice dubbing, Broadway chorus lines and road shows, she is clicking in her chosen profession.

While barefooting her way around a floor covered with rehearsal scores, she gave the key to her growing success — "I'm a salesman. The product is me."

She explained her theory meant finding the best hairdo make-up and fashions to project the image she wants. Most young women will not star opposite Sammy Davis in "Golden Boy," or take an act to Las Vegas or Miami Beach, but the self-analysis and hard work of getting a "personal look and philosophy" is within their grasp, she feels.

Miss Wayne, who tells some she is old at 27, says she is just beginning to make the most of her physical attributes and drawbacks. For example, she laughingly explains that she discovered in "Golden Boy" that she is built like a girl and she dresses accordingly. She plans to wear long skirts in her act to compensate for her short legs. She also discovered sequin tops and velvet tops go well with her figure.

Being a blonde and brown-eyed she makes the most of vibrant colors and finds that white or certain shades of yellow make her look washed out in the spotlight. When selecting day-to-day clothing, teenagers should consider what the lighting will be where they are and what certain colors do for their complexions.

Paula Wayne

If you have heavy forearms as does Miss Wayne, you can camouflage them with long sleeves.

Her strong suit, though, is her blonde hair which is cut and set to break at the jawline, often in a guiche. "I have a broad chin and a short muscular neck," she explains, "and this style is the most flattering."

With this she concentrates on her eyes which she feels are her best feature. However, she doesn't use excessive eye make-up. A touch of brown eye shadow and mascara is heightened by two pairs of eyelashes worn at the same time. One is a thick pair and the other with long lashes.

Miss Wayne feels she uses less make-up, even on stage, than most actresses and says she gives her face a rest from make-up during the day. She thoroughly removes make-up with soap and water and doesn't use a cream. At night she smooths on a baby oil.

"I'm bad about dieting," she grimaces, but keeps her trim size 10 by chasing her daughter, 8, and son, 6. She likes ice skating and horseback riding and even captained Sardi's softball team last summer. However, if she really feels the need for exercise she turns to dancing, an enjoyable way to loosen up.

Tree Limb Causes Death

ZALMA -- A Zalma area man who was injured Wednesday in a freak logging accident died Friday at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff of internal injuries.

Hoytt Turner, 34, a farmer who lived two miles northeast of Zalma, was working about 3 p.m. Wednesday near his home with a cousin, Bobby Turner, 35, who lives near Gipsy.

The men felled a tree and were standing beside it when a large limb plunged down on top of them. The limb apparently had broken off the main trunk and lodged momentarily in another tree.

Both men were knocked unconscious, with Hoytt taking the main force of the blow. Bobby Turner awakened some time

Canutt Directs Camels

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Yakima Canutt, who has dealt with just about every kind of movie action, has returned from Egypt where he met a new challenge: directing hundreds of battle-charging camels.

Still vigorous at 70, Canutt has long been one of Hollywood's most colorful figures. A rodeo champion for five years, he came a cowboy star in silent films, later won fame as the screen's most fearless stunt man.

He is the chap who performed the memorable feat in "Stage Coach," transferring from an Indian pony to the rampaging team of horses, falling between them and letting the coach pass over his body. Then he doubled for John Wayne, leaping from the coach onto the horses and finally controlling the runaway.

Later and found Hoytt lying nearby with the huge limb on top of him.

Neighbors assisted in bringing Turner out of the timber to a waiting ambulance.

ways. When Yak's bones began to object to such rigors, he turned to the direction of action scenes in film epics. His most notable achievement was the chariot race in "Ben-Hur." He also staged a gorilla hunt for "Mogambo," battles in "Helen of Troy" and "Fall of the Roman Empire," jousts in "Ivanhoe" and "El Cid," and comedy stunts in "Cat Ballou."

In Egypt he directed four large battles for "Khartoum," starring Charlton Heston and Laurence Olivier.

Despite his difficulties, Canutt managed to stage the desert battles with his usual dispatch. In the climactic massacre of Khartoum he used 5,000 foot soldiers, 750 camel riders and hundreds of horsemen.

★ That purchase, in the words of Lyndon Johnson, "set into motion the greatest thrift program the world has ever known."

★ Since 1941 Americans have bought more than $150,000,000,000 worth of Series E and H Savings Bonds.

★ From these savings have come new homes, college

Knight Retiring At Steele School

STEELE -- Riley F. Knight, for the past 17 years superintendent of the South Pemiscot School District, is retiring after 41 years in education, and one of six teachers honored at the annual dinner of the South-east Missouri Teachers Association Thursday night during the meeting of the teachers at Cape Girardeau.

Knight is retiring at the close of the current school term after serving schools, all in Missouri, at Carter, Gideon, Republic, Hornersville, Arbyrd, Bloomfield and finally at Steele. Since 1949, under Knight's supervision and leadership, Steele has built a new high school, lunchroom, gymnasium, four new classrooms at the high school and a new elementary school building known as East School.

In 1950 Knight was named by the State Board of Education to serve on a committee to make a revision of Missouri school curriculum. He has also written professional articles which have been published in educational magazines.

Not only has this veteran educator excelled in his work as a school administrator, he has also found time to serve his community as Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis International, teach a Bible class for men, serve his church as a deacon and as superintendent of the Sunday school, and hold membership in two fraternities -- Sigma Tau Gamma and Phi Delta Kappa. When Knight was only six months old, his parents moved from Tipton County, Tenn., to Carter, a community near Portageville, where he took his elementary schooling. During his four years at Portageville High School he excelled in scholastic work and made the first string basketball team.

He attended Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield where he earned a B.S. degree and continued on at George Peabody College at Nashville, Tenn., where he received an M.A. Later he did advanced study at the University of Iowa. His first teaching was at the community of Carter where he lived as a child. It was at Republic, near Springfield, that he first served as school principal.

It was while principal and commercial teacher at Hornersville that he met Clara Mabel Hayes who became his wife a short time later. They are the parents of two daughters--Martha, a graduate nurse at Baptist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., and Janie, a senior at Arkansas State College at Jonesboro.

When he retires, Knight says he will continue to work for the community. Not having to teach, he says, will give him more time to do some of the things he has always longed to do.

Knight Retiring At Steele School

STEELE -- Riley F. Knight, for the past 17 years superintendent of the South Pemiscot School District R-V and a veteran of 41 years in education, was one of six teachers honored at the annual dinner of the Southeast Missouri Teachers Association Thursday night during the meeting of the teachers at Cape Girardeau.

Knight is retiring at the close of the current school term after serving schools, all in Missouri, at Carter, Gideon, Republic, Hornersville, Arbyrd, Bloomfield and finally at Steele. Since 1949, under Knight's supervision and leadership, Steele has built a new high school, lunchroom, gymnasium, four new classrooms at the high school and a new elementary school building known as East School.

In 1950 Knight was named by the State Board of Education to serve on a committee to make a revision of Missouri school curriculum. He has also written professional articles which have been published in educational magazines.

Not only has this veteran educator excelled in his work as a school administrator, he has also found time to serve his community as Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis International, teach a Bible class for men, serve his church as a deacon and as superintendent of the Sunday school, and hold membership in two fraternities -- Sigma Tau Gamma and Phi Delta Kappa. When Knight was only six months old, his parents moved from Tipton County, Tenn., to Carter, a community near Portageville, where he took his elementary schooling. During his four years at Portageville High School he excelled in scholastic work and made the first string basketball team.

He attended Southwest Missouri State College at Springfield where he earned a BS degree and continued on at George Peabody College at Nashville, Tenn. where he received an MA. Later he did advanced study at the University of Iowa. His first teaching was at the community of Carter where he lived as a child. It was at Republic, near Springfield, that he first served as school principal.

It was while principal and commercial teacher at Hornersville that he met Clara Mabel Hayes who became his wife a short time later. They are the parents of two daughters--Martha, a graduate nurse at Baptist Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. and Janie, a senior at Arkansas State College at Jonesboro.

When he retires, Knight says he will continue to work for the community. Not having to teach, he says, will give him more time to do some of the things he has always longed to do.

Spelling Bee On April 8

CARUTHERSVILLE (Special)—The annual Pemiscot County Spelling Bee will be held in the studio of Radio Station KCRV April 8, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Superintendents, principals and teachers of the various elementary schools in Pemiscot County have been notified of the event and a representative is expected from each school. The winner will represent Pemiscot County in the Mid-South Bee in Memphis, Tenn., April 29.

Bruce Cole, Hayti High School English instructor, has been asked to serve as word pronouncer. Judges will be Rev. Paul Currie, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Caruthersville; John Fowles, Caruthersville attorney; and J. R. Corbin, Caruthersville appliance dealer. Cleat Stanfill of KCRV will announce the program.

The Caruthersville Chamber of Commerce is again providing the cash awards. First place will be $25, second $15 and third $10. These will be presented by Robert Morgan, president of the C of C.

Ribbons will be presented by the Kiwanis Club of Caruthersville. The contest is being sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola Co. The contest will go on the air at 1:30 p.m. and contestants should report to the studio no later than 1:15 so they may draw for places and receive their numbers well in advance of starting time. Contestants must furnish an 8x12 inch identification card with his name, grade and school written on it.

In the 1965 spelling bee Debbie Bruce of Caruthersville won.

Oran Will Vote On Tax Levy

ORAN -- A tax levy proposal of $2.35 on $100 assessed valuation of the R-3 school district and the election of three school board members will be voted upon at the April 5 election, it was announced.

The tax levy proposal of $2.35 would be in addition to the $1 rate on the $100 assessed valuation that may be levied by the board of education without voter approval, school officials said. Of the $2.35 levy, 65 cents would be applied on the building fund, $1.40 for the incidental fund and 30 cents for the teachers' fund, officials explained. March 25 has been set as the deadline for filing for school board. Two directors for three-year terms and one for a two-year term will be elected.

The terms of G. K. Patterson and H. J. Todd expire. Mr. Patterson said he probably would not file for re-election. He has been on the board 25 years. Mr. Todd has filed, as has Gene Brockett, an Oran druggist.

The vacancy for the two-year term resulted when Robert Clark resigned last Thursday with two years of his three-year term unexpired. Clark has moved to Illinois. Julian Streeter has filed.

Henri Christophe, who later became Haiti's King Henri I, was one of 800 Haitians who fought in the Revolutionary War with the American colonists.

Judges of election shall, immediately upon the closing of the polls, count the ballots and ascertain the number of votes cast in such precinct for each of the candidates, and make the return thereof to the City Clerk upon proper blanks to be furnished by the said Clerk within eighteen hours of the closing of the polls.

On the day following the said election, the Council shall canvass said returns so received from the polling precincts and declare the result; and the two candidates receiving the first and second highest number of votes for Councilman, shall be declared duly elected Councilman.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are average income people who live on an average street in a typical American city -- population under 90,000. We are in our late 20's and have two small children.

Both my husband and I grew up in this town and our friends are the kids we went to school with. I used to feel that we knew one another so well it was like sister and brother stuff. Now I'm not so sure. This is what's been happening:

Five couples get together at least once a week. A few weeks ago one of the girls suggested that we play little kid kissing games just for the heck of it. We started with spin-the-bottle and post-office and progressed to "Who have I got?"

"Who have I got?" goes like this: The boy is blindfolded and crawls under a bed. A girl then crawls under the bed with him and gives him a kiss. He is supposed to guess who she is.

There is quite a lot of drinking at these parties and "Who have I got?" is getting awfully popular. Last night my husband was "it." I thought he and the girl stayed under the bed a lot longer than was necessary.

My husband says it is harmless fun and that so long as we play the game in front of our mates there will be no trouble. What do you say? -- THIRD THOUGHTS

Dear Thoughts: I say these parties are about as harmless as a man-eating shark who hasn't had anything but cottage cheese for the last six months. Pull out of this crowd and fast. These games will produce nothing but losers.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl with a big problem. Every couple of months my mother gets a telephone call from "Never Mind."

The first call came right after I was 13. My mother answered the telephone and a woman's voice said, "I think you ought to know I saw your daughter riding in a car with boys that looked a lot older than she is."

My mother asked, "Who is this?" The voice said, "Never Mind." That was the end of the conversation.

A few months later the same woman called again and said, "I think you ought to know that your daughter was seen wearing heavy make-up, dark glasses and boots last Friday night. She was hanging around the bus station." When Mother asked who was calling she said, "Never Mind."

Last night another call came. This time my dad answered the phone. The woman said I was seen smoking behind the school.

I am not guilty of any of these things and I can't understand why anyone would want to get me into trouble. My folks trust me but they are upset about the calls. How can I defend myself against someone I don't even know? --NOT ME

Dear Not: Your best defense is your daily performance. If you are a well-behaved girl your parents know it. The next time "Never Mind" calls, whoever answers the phone should tell HER "Never Mind."

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE GIRL WHO KNOWS ALL THE ANSWERS: If you know all the answers,

Linda C. Downey

Staff Sergeant Linda C. Downey, Women's Army Corps Selection Officer from St. Louis, will be in Sikeston on March 22nd. She will be available at the US Army Recruiting Station from 9 AM to 3 PM to advise prospective college graduates or graduates of the executive positions open to women as officers in the United States Army.

A WAC officer must, at the time of application, be between the ages of 20 and 30, a graduate of an accredited four-year college or university, and be medically and morally qualified. She may be married or single, but may have no dependents under 18 years of age. Pay and allowances for women officers are the same as for men. Normally young women are commissioned as second lieutenants, and they may expect promotion to first lieutenant in 18 months. The initial service obligation is 2 years.

Also of interest is the WAC College Junior Program which offers an exciting preview of Army life to selected college juniors. The four-week course is conducted at the US Women's Army Corps at Fort McClellan, Alabama for young women who are considering an Army career following their graduation from college. Attendance at the College Junior Courses does not obligate in any way for service after graduation.

Please call Sfc Ledbetter for an appointment in event you can not meet Sgt. Downey on the above time & date.

The Board of Directors of the American Nurses' Association acknowledged its responsibility to support measures to ensure adequate nursing care in national defense in a news release issued recently. It stated, in part, that "the profession's support of the long-range defense program was reaffirmed encouraging those nurses who are eligible to serve a minimum of two years in the military service."

Based on the total Defense Department requirement of 4,500 nurses before July 1966, and an additional 5,000 by July 1967, the ANA is urging the State Nurses' Associations and District Nurses' Associations to support the recruitment efforts of the Armed Forces nationwide.

A recent Executive Order amending Selective Service regulations authorizes the drafting of men nurses, if required.

Graduates of three and four-year nursing programs may apply for a direct commission in the Army Nurse Corps; those who have graduated from two-year nursing programs may receive a Warrant Officer appointment, if qualified.

Additional Civil Service positions are open for civilian nurses in military hospitals in the United States.

For further information about the U S Army Nurse Corps contact Sfc. Ledbetter at Sikeston, telephone number GR 1-3419.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

The Lord is good unto them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him. (Lamentations 3:25)

PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee that Thou art ever seeking us and waiting for us to come to Thee, seeking mercy. Grant that many may come to know the comfort and happiness of Thy forgiveness and love. Help us to point to others the way to a fuller and better life for them. In the name of Jesus we pray. Amen.

A 'Green Beret' Cuts a Record

Barry Sadler—songs for soldiers.

THE BALLAD OF THE GREEN BERETS

Fighting soldiers from the sky;
Fearless men who jump and die,
Men who mean just what they say;
The brave men of the Green Beret.

Silver wings upon their chests,
These are men, America's best.
One hundred men we'll test today;
But only three win the Green Beret.

Trained to live off nature's land;
Trained to combat hand to hand;
Men who fight by night and day,
Courage take from the Green Beret.

Back at home a young wife waits;
Her Green Beret has met his fate.
He has died for those oppressed,
Leaving her this last request.

Put silver wings upon my son's chest,
Make him one of America's best.
He'll be a man they will test one day,
Have him win the Green Beret.

A 'Green Beret' Cuts a Record

Barry Sadler—songs for soldiers.

THE BALLAD OF THE GREEN BERETS

Fighting soldiers from the sky;
Fearless men who jump and die,
Men who mean just what they say;
The brave men of the Green Beret.

Silver wings upon their chests,
These are men, America's best.
One hundred men we'll test today;
But only three win the Green Beret.

Trained to live off nature's land;
Trained to combat hand to hand;
Men who fight by night and day,
Courage take from the Green Beret.

Back at home a young wife waits;
Her Green Beret has met his fate.
He has died for those oppressed,
Leaving her this last request.

Put silver wings upon my son's chest,
Make him one of America's best.
He'll be a man they will test one day,
Have him win the Green Beret.

He is married and the father of a 13-month-old son named Thor. His wife, he says, is "pretty shook. She doesn't believe any of this."

His humor is sharp and sly. He is not the least worried that success will spoil him. "I won't let success spoil a fine person," he said. "I don't think I'm as good as I really am." He paused and said, "Maybe you had better not write that down."

He was assured that readers would be told that he said it as a joke. He did.

I needed some money, so I got with a trio that needed a drummer. While I was with them I picked up the guitar, then I started sitting in as a guitarist. I started composing at the same time, because I got tired of listening to all the junk around. I decided I would write something I liked, for a change."

Simplicity and the ingenuity quality of his lyrics is the combination that makes Barry's songs touching. His voice is pleasant, natural and has the quality of a country singer.

He found a music publisher through the Public Information Office at Fort Bragg. The publisher, Chet Gierlach, says, "I wasn't impressed with the quality of his voice on the demonstration tape he sent me, but I wanted to hear more songs. He came back with a whole bunch of them. But then we made another demo—and I took it to RCA Victor and everyone flipped over his voice. It was the fastest signing of talent you ever saw."

Sadler's song-writing philosophy is simple. "The words are the most important part. Each song has a story to tell, a moral or something. It's not enough just to get up and jump around."

He is married and the father of a 13-month-old son named Thor. His wife, he says, is "pretty shook. She doesn't believe any of this."
